FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR,
WILLIAM T. DAVIES,
OF BRADFORD COUNTY.

FOR AUDITOR GENERAL,
COL. A. WILSON NORRIS,
OF PHILADELPHIA.

FOR SECRETARY OF INTERNAL AFFAIRS,
COL. T. J. STEWART,
OF MONTGOMERY COUNTY.

FOR CONGRESSMAN AT LARGE,
GEN. E. S. OSBORNE,
OF LUZERNE COUNTY.

EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

"ANYONE to beat Beaver!" is the Democratic slogan.

MOST of the country papers discontinued publication this week.

THE fashion of imitating everything English is absurd and unpatriotic.

BOSTON has commenced to decay. John L. Sullivan has permanently moved to New York.

RECORD of the Forty-ninth Congress to date: Congress has done nothing and the President has vetoed it.

THE Hartford papers are discussing anæsthetics. Of course, specimen copies are used as illustrations.

CANADA has seized an American schooner for "taking water." That is something American vessels should never take.

AT this time it looks as if the Unionists and Conservatives, in England, are gaining, but we hope that Gladstone will not be defeated.

THE man who will not buy goods of domestic in preference to those of foreign manufacture, all things being equal, is a ridiculous snob.

THERE is one officer to every five men in the United States Navy. To prevent overwork some more officers should be appointed immediately.

PENNSYLVANIA Republican State platforms always furnish the kind of Protection doctrine the Cleveland Leader likes, and this year's quota is no exception.

THERE was a convention of Spring poets in Indiana the other day. How would it do to hold a convention of Pennsylvania Spring poets in Bellefonte?

THE Women's Christian Temperance Union of Pittsburg has endorsed the "submission" plank in the Republican platform as "the right thing in the right place."

IN a conversation with Chairman Rynder, of the Greenback party, the other day, he expressed the belief that Gov. Curtin will be the nominee of the Democrats for Governor.

THE late date at which the Nebraska Republican State Committee decided to call the State Convention is considered an anti-Van Wyck victory. September 29 is the day fixed upon.

YALE COLLEGE announces its intention of becoming a university. Its ground for that ambition is strikingly concurrent with the demonstration of its ability to beat Harvard in a boat race.

AN American prophet, two months ago, said that overcoats would be in demand on the Fourth of July. That man will probably go where all the weather is as hot as it was in Bellefonte on the Fourth.

CANADA is up to her old pranks again and is seizing more American fishing vessels. In view of this untoward circumstance it might be well to awaken Secretary Bayard and ask him if has such a thing as a policy lying around loose anywhere.

EVERY time the President vetoes a special pension bill he thinks he is perpetrating a huge joke, and perhaps he is. But some of the people whose applications for pensions are thus rejected will starve to death before they ever see the point of the President's wit.

An Orator off the Track.

In our report of the Knights of Labor picnic and the speech of the orator of the day, John L. Butler, we did not criticise his remarks. Indeed, we did not hear all of his speech. He is a good talker, but the subject matter of what he said seemed so much like a regular Democratic harangue that we retired in disgust. It seemed to us that a Knights of Labor picnic was not the proper place for such a speech.

We believe we heard about one-third of the speech. In that part of it he made at least three misrepresentations, and if he continued at the same rate throughout his talk there were nine misstatements.

First, Mr. Butler proved himself to be entirely "off" when he said that editors live in grand houses. There we stood before him, a living contradiction to the statement. Enough for that.

He attempted to prove by figures that some laborers in this country receive less than is given for the support of criminals, and thus aimed to belittle the comparison often made between the wages received in this country with that received by the pauper laborers of Europe. He failed to state, however, how much such pauper laborers of Europe receive. But Bellefonte gentlemen who have traveled in Europe could have told him that they have seen in Europe women acting as hod-carriers and entire families working without earning enough wages to support them decently. Such a thing is unknown in America. We do not maintain that laborers in this country receive as much as they deserve, but do condemn any attempt to prove that they do not receive more than similar workmen in Europe.

Mr. Butler, we believe, was a Greenbacker and received an appointment as a concession to that party. The platform of the Greenbackers is, if possible, more decidedly protectionist than that of the Republicans. But Mr. Butler argued in favor of free trade. Being now in the Democratic service, we suppose he considers it expedient to take issue with his party on this subject. He said it would be better to throttle the Pennsylvania R. R. and make it carry freight cheaper than to increase the tariff on pig iron. But Mr. Butler should know that the tariff is one subject and the management of a railroad another. The reports do not indicate that the Pennsylvania R. R. is earning immense dividends. We have seen it stated that the Bald Eagle branch is the most profitable belonging to the Pennsylvania system. Some of the branches do not pay expenses. We owe nothing to the Pennsylvania Railroad and would condemn it if it did wrong. But if the railroad company would carry freight free it would not make amends for the injury to industry caused by free imports. We say again, and we have often said, that the one safe rule is to tariff all imports that in anyway come in competition with productions or manufactures of this country, and that the productions and manufactures of this country should be increased until they include everything. Aim to make America's productions the best and Europeans will obtain them, tariff or no tariff.

An Unfortunate Discussion.

Oh, dear; we don't understand why a young and handsome editor who claims that his paper is prospering so amazingly should get angry and call names! But the scribe of the Boaster poured upon us last week what we suppose was his most withering sarcasm. But we do not mind that. If it pleases him, let him continue.

What grieves us most is the dilemma in which his hot-headed impetuosity has placed himself and several other persons, and which has, of course, called out the exulting comments of that watchful adversary, the Watchman—which always rejoices when it can throw a firebrand among Republicans.

It happens that we know something about the question at issue between the Boaster, Mr. Zeigler and Mr. Schaeffer. Even before the assembling of the Prohibition county convention one or two indiscreet persons urged us to criticize the impropriety of meeting in the Y. M. C. A. hall. But our experience in such things convinced us that to offer objections at such a juncture would be just the act which would inflame the Prohibitionists and alienate them from the gallant Republican candidate for Governor, whose friends, we happen to known, most of them are. More than that, we happen to know something of the inside workings of that convention and are confident that measures were adopted there which will accrue to Gen. Beaver's interest, but which it was not deemed expedient to make public.

Morever, we reasoned that if they were permitted to convene in that hall the very place would restrain them from that wholesale condemnation of any party not in perfect sympathy with them in which they oft-times indulge. The plan worked perfectly and the convention was a tame affair, smaller and less enthusiastic than had been several former county conventions. The writer deemed it wise to state only the actual work of the convention (which spoke for itself) and resort to no over-strained effort to depreciate it.

With that faculty for blundering, however, which characterizes those who have been most of their lives associated with Democratic papers, the editor of the Boaster resorted to many columns of ridicule and false insinuation, which we believe the sensible action of the Republican State Convention, and the really insignificant source from which the ridicule came will avert from doing any injury to Centre county Republicanism, which figures tell us has been making steady advances, under the healthful influence of wise leadership.

"The Temperance Plank."

The resolution adopted as part of the principles of the Republican party for this present campaign in Pennsylvania, is commonly designated as a "temperance plank." We regret, however, that it has received that name as it is a misnomer. There is no temperance principle asserted in the resolution referred to, but merely a concession which should have been accorded long ago, and which is in the line of that perfect fairness that should always influence the great Republican party, and which assertion of principle every citizen should agree is right. The Prohibitionists demanded that the people be given an opportunity to declare their opinions on a much discussed question. It was granted them so far as the Republicans can. That was all. The Republican party did not declare either for or against Prohibition. It granted a demand and that demand. Thus it illustrates that it is a progressive party.

We believe that, as the situation now is, the Prohibitionists can best carry out their objects by affiliating with the party which recognizes the justice of their demands, while the party which illustrates by its every action that it is afraid to declare itself on any question entitles itself only to the abhorrence of all true citizens and convinces all mankind that its time has arrived to disappear from the face of the earth. That all may fully comprehend the admirable purport of the resolution referred to, we again publish it here:

WHEREAS, There is an evident desire on the part of a large number of intelligent and respectable citizens of Pennsylvania to amend the Constitution by inserting a clause prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating drinks as a beverage within the limits of the Commonwealth; therefore,

Resolved, That it is the opinion and judgment of this convention that the Legislature of the State should at once adopt measures providing for the submission of this question to a vote of the people, in accordance with the true spirit of our free institutions.

Read it over carefully and then do not call it a temperance plank, but rather a movement to grant a just demand.

Suppose a different condition of affairs. If for ten or a dozen years prohibitory laws had been in force in Pennsylvania and persons who voted for them should wish to again try the sentiment of the people on the question of repealing such laws, we hold that no one should object to such a proceeding. Indeed, the only true theory of government is to obtain from time to time the expressed will of the people. Majorities must rule. Those who are in the advance of sound public progress must spread their sentiments and opinions among the masses and that will enable the majority to decide right every time.

IT is asserted on Democratic authority that Mr. Morrison will report Mr. Randall's tariff bill to the House adversely, without change, and that Mr. Randall will make no attempt to call it up, because if he should do so the Morrison wing would offer their own bill as a substitute after the measure got before the House, and so precipitate an endless discussion. It is amusing to see the Democracy wrestling with the tariff question and trying to secure something like unanimity in the party upon the subject.

THE Boston Herald says the Massachusetts Legislature has been "prorogued." The word is so English, you know.

FAST.

This is a fast age, in a fast world. Everything is in the order of fast. From the moment the sun and planets were first sent spinning through illimitable space there has been a wonderful velocity in all things terrestrial and celestial. Ages and cycles go hurrying by; kingdoms are blotted out, nations pass to decay, and men vanish; but still the panorama of the universe is perpetually unrolling with fresh scenes of ever-increasing lustre and beauty.

Fast is the word best descriptive of the moving planets, and of all the workings and manifestations of nature's grandest forces. Heat, electricity, and light, afford illustrations of a velocity past human comprehension.

Upon this general principle, and as though pervaded by these elements, many human lives seem formed and propelled. Therefore, we should not be sorely grieved and astounded that the present should be called a fast age, and we Americans a fast people.

If the Yankees possess a cunning which stands pre-eminent among their infinite peculiarities and qualifications, it is the cunning of imitation. So, into this great whirl of nature they bring the whirl of wit, industry, invention, speculation, enterprise, education, and of social and universal progress. They keep tally with all the lightning footsteps of Time.

The industries of the American nation are unparalleled in the history of the world. We build the most complicated and extensive machinery, the largest factories, the most extensive telegraph lines and railroads, print the greatest number of books and papers, and in commerce and arts excel all other nations.

We have the most complete system of public instruction,—our common schools and colleges being the wonder and admiration of all civilized people. We are fast in all the elements, and development, of material, political, social, and religious growth.

But here we may very properly raise statesmen should seriously ponder and discuss:—Are we not also fast in the adoption of habits, customs, fashions, and vices that lead to effeminacy and certain decay?

It is not wrong to be fast in a righteous cause and work; but yet, it is well to observe the common-sense maxim: "Be sure you're right,"—this is the first clause, stop and consider,—"Be sure you're right, then go ahead."

To be fast in the way of evil and wrong doing will lead to inevitable ruin. To be fast in the way of truth and goodness will insure perpetual peace and joy.

HIRAM TORREY.

Don't Believe It.

Wonderful things sometimes happen, but the retirement of ex-Gov. Curtin from public life seems to be one of the events not at all probable. It is not like the Governor, as we believe he desires to be in public life the balance of his natural existence. However, if he decides to become a private citizen again we shall welcome him back to Bellefonte. The Pittsburg Commercial refers to his proposed retirement in the following serious style: "Gov. Curtin, of Pennsylvania, has announced his intention of retiring to private life at the end of his Congressional term. Gov. Curtin has been in active political life for thirty-five years past. In that time he has been Secretary of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Superintendent of Public Instruction, War Governor of Pennsylvania, Minister of the United States to Russia, member of the Constitutional Convention of Pennsylvania, and since 1881 a member of Congress. Gov. Curtin has felt the cares of official life too heavy upon him during the past winter, and he has finally announced his intention to retire with the close of the Forty-ninth Congress, to return to his home at Bellefonte, where he was born and where he has spent nearly all his life."

WE regret that Col. A. Wilson Norris selected such an inopportune time to attack and criticise events in Gen. Sickles' military record at Gettysburg. It is bad for one soldier to criticise another at any time. In the language of Gen. Sickles' reply, there is glory enough for all. And now other military men come forward to denounce the criticism as untrue and infamous. We hope that Colonel Norris will at once confess that his charges were ill-considered and untrue. Confess like a man, and no one will refuse to forgive one who has spoken and written much and now makes his first misstatement.

Lessons of the Fourth.

In the local columns we have not said much about the Fourth of July. Nevertheless, Bellefonte and several other places in Centre county had a Fourth. As the real Fourth occurred on Sunday this year and it was necessary to celebrate parts of two days (Saturday and Monday), we will be excused if we get a little mixed on the date. But we are sure it was the real, genuine, spread eagle Fourth of July and we weren't drunk, either.

Bellefonte celebrated on Saturday. There was a picnic and a base ball game. Monday was quiet and in the evening a few bright colored fire works went to meet the stars and came down again in beauty.

We notice that Philipsburg also got confused as to the date of this glorious, rip-roarious old Fourth. She had horse races and they were run, trotted or paced—as they pleased—on Friday and Saturday.

At Scotia there was a parade and, we believe, a picnic, the attendants at the meeting in the woods doubling themselves up over picnic lemonade with some color in it. Then at Stormstown there was an observance of the day and Spring Mills became very enthusiastic over it.

We are inclined to believe that the modern observance of the day is too tame. People are so much afraid that some of their property will be damaged, that they refuse to permit young folks to give expression to their ebullition of patriotic feeling. Old time celebration of the Fourth in the booming of guns and speech-making should be permitted and the young folks should be carefully instructed as to what it means, and thus they would have the advantage of much historical information not otherwise acquired, and their patrotic zeal would grow with their physicial and mental growth.

SENATOR HOAR made an able attack upon the President's Civil Service pretension, a few days since. He said, in judging of the President's own conduct only to the President's own conduct and policy, but to the conduct and policy of those officials whom he had selected and clothed with power, whose execution of the law it was his sworn duty to supervise and control. Judging from this test the Senator from Massachusetts did not find that the Executive had kept or had attempted to keep the pledges which had preceded and followed his election.

"IT would not be surprising," remarks a gentleman who lives in Washington, "if Congress should adjourn in a grand row with the President. There is a swell of resentment in both branches at the manner in which he has used his veto power. The light and playful way in which he tramples upon legislation may be amusing to a certain portion of the public, but it is not funny to the legislators. Mr. Cleveland is the first President since Andrew Johnson who has spelled Congress with a little "c", and none of his predecessors ever dared to entrench themselves behind their constitutional prerogatives as he has done, and fire shot at the Capitol."

THE recent declarations of the Philadelphia Times evince what the stock in trade of the Democratic party is to be this year. On Friday the Times contained an editorial on the thrilling topic, "Dear Beaver, Don't Talk" Now, as no one ever read an article on that subject before, the Times shows wonderful enterprise in writing about it. Perhaps the Times will electify its readers with a few comments in Noah building the Ark.

TIMES seem to be hard at Albany when the twenty-million dollar capitol building of the State of New York is advertised for sale on unpaid water-tax of one dollar. The construction of that remarkable pile included a great many extravagances which were endorsed; but it seems that now the authorities of the building are determined to stand no such useless waste of money as supplying water to the politicians.

MR. POWDERLY is thoroughly in the right in denouncing police intrusion in private meetings of the Knights of Labor. The Knights are American citizens and their rights as such should not be infringed upon.

IF ANY county in New Jersey has not presented a favorite son for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination the fact is not generally known. The list of aspirants is now a long one.

GENERAL NOTES.

A newspaper has been discovered at Pekin, China, that was started in the year 911.

A colony has gone from Newfoundland to British Columbia to introduce a new process of preserving fish for the Eastern market.

A California editor gratefully acknowledges the receipt of an invitation from a subscriber to visit his house and take a bath.

Mr. James Smith, of Clark's Harbor, N. S., caught a fish for lobster bait and found a full-grown mouse in its stomach, recently swallowed.

The store of Henry Wilson, at Lakeville, N. B., was fired by the reflection of the sun's rays from a lot of new tin cans upon the woodwork.

A woman states that she has for many years observed the men taken to a station house by the police, and not one in 200 wears a tall hat.

Louis Michel is said to be tired of freedom, and desires the French authorities to send her back to the cell from which she was recently released.

It is said that two St. Albany boys went fishing and caught a big eel, which had wrapped itself around a tin pail in which were $17.50 in gold.

It is said that the colored people of the United States maintain more secret and benevolent societies than any other people on the face of the globe.

Mrs. Mark Hopkins, the millionaire's widow, has for her factotum a young colored man, who manages much of her business and conducts a part of her correspondence.

John Owen Snyder, of Hartford City, Ind., has been walking 18 hours each day on an improvised track for 2 years, to wear off several layers of flesh he imagines have grown on the soles of his feet. He has now walked 60,000 miles.

A "marine bicycle," which has reached Hartford, Conn., is said to be very fast. The machine has two long narrow floats, and the rider sit on a high seat and propels with his feet a large wheel which runs a small propeller in the stern.

If I. W. Pearce, of Brooklyn, N. Y. can prove that his mother was a cousin of Sarah Savage, mother of T. H. Blythe, of California, he will become the heir of $8,000,000 left by Blythe. He goes to England for the purpose of getting the necessary evidence.

Boston has 83 miles of streets, and pays $450,000 a year to keep them clean. New York has 250 miles of thoroughfare, and pays $1,200,000 a year for cleaning them. Philadelphia claims to have 800.

A church in Morelia, Mex., has been agitated by a visit from the devil. Nobody saw the gentleman in person, but in a single instant, every movable article in the church, except the reliquary and statue of the Virgin, fell to the floor. It was plain that only the devil could have caused the disaster.

Grandma Jordon, the oldest woman in Iowa, died at the residence of her 80-year-old son in Wiota on Friday last. She was over 111 years old, and though for five years the events of the past 50 seemed to be blotted out of her memory, she loved to talk of what occurred in her former Kentucky home when she was a girl.

A Paris correspondent writes that the revolver has come to be a favorite weapon in that city, and the impunity with which the deadly weapon is carried about and frequently used with telling effect is suggestive of the wild freedom of Colorado. Miniature Colts and Derringers are sold in the gunsmiths' shops at prices which come within the means of the merest schoolboy.

German engineers have succeeded in diminishing the swaying in locomotives, and with it the wear of the rear driver flanges, by making the tender coupling more or less rigid laterally, and, indeed, four-wheeled locomotives have been used on some roads for line engines by having heavy shoot bolts on either side entering sockets on the tender, in this way preventing either vertical or horizontal swaying.

Seals were not much used by our Anglo-Saxon ancestors, but came largely into fashion during the Norman reigns. The gilt crosses or marks of Edward the Confessor and other Saxon kings can scarcely be called seals, and partook more of the character of signatures of an illiterate age; but a grand and perfect seal of William the Conqueror exists, having the monarch crowned and throned on the one side and mounted on horseback on the other—attitudes which have been invariably observed to the present day.

In Paris recently, a boy of 16, named Doulet, fired two shots of a revolver at a young girl about his own age, named Duperche, in the Faubourg St. Martin. The girl, a seamstress, was proceeding along the street with two companions when Doulet fired. The bullets hit her in the back and she fell bleeding on the pavement. The youthful criminal was arrested immediately, and while in the hands of the policemen attempted to shoot himself, but unsuccessfully. He then embraced the girl, who asked the policemen to let him off.

To encourage the establishment of woolen and cotton manufacture in South Africa a bill has been introduced in the Cape Legislature proposing that on certain terms persons that establish cotton or woolen mills in the colony for the manufacture of cotton and wool produced there shall receive aid from the colonial treasury. Manufactured goods from England are already subjected to heavy custom duties at the Cape, and it is anticipated that the Free Trade party will strongly oppose the contemplated development of the protective system.

Poetry.

THUS RUNS THE WORLD AWAY.

Like snowy lilies fleet as fine,
Whose fragrant course is run,
Like dewdrops on the eglantine,
Like frost-work in the sun;
So vanish youth's delightful dreams,
So beauty's charms decay;
Like blossoms strewn on sparkling streams;
Thus runs the world away.

Like foam upon the billows bright,
Like sunset's gorgeous dyes,
Like moonbeams shedding silver light,
Over the jewelled skies:
So softly from our vision glide
Hopes, plans and projects gay,
Alone we roam at eventide;
Thus runs the world away.

Of friends whom ruthless time destroys,
We're, day by day, bereft;
The spectres of our perished joys,
Are all the comrades left.
Love's chain is broken link by link,
We sing the mournful lay,
Forlorn upon Life's river brink;
Thus runs the world away.

A KNOT OF BLUE.

She hath no gems of lustre bright
To sparkle in her hair;
No need hath she of borrowed light
To make her beauty fair.
Upon her shining locks afloat
Are daisies wet with dew,
And peeping from her lissome throat
A little knot of blue.

A dainty knot of blue,
A ribbon blithe of hue—
It fills my dreams with sunny gleams,
That little knot of blue.

I meet her down the shadowed lane
Beneath the apple tree,
The balmy blossoms fell like rain
Upon my love and me;
And what I said and what I did
That morn I never knew,
But to my breast there came and hid
A little knot of blue.

A little knot of blue,
A love-knot strong and true—
'Twill hold my heart till life shall part,
That little knot of blue.

THE TEMPLARS.

BY DAVID BARRED.

Who aid the widows with their mites
And guard the helpless virgin's rights?—
A band of old and valliant Knights,
The Templars.

To save a friend, who walk around
With blood-stained feet on frozen ground?—
If any such are ever found,
The Templars.

Who shield the Christians as they kneel,
And wall them in with burnished steel,
And guard them well through woe or weal?—
The Templars.

What men are those, despite of scars,
Who, facing flashing scimetars,
Defend the Cross in Holy Wars?—
The Templars.

When Knights are called from "Labor" here,
Who throng around the sable bier,
And drop the warm, fraternal tear?—
The Templars.

God of our Craft, enable me
A faithful, worthy Knight to be,
And bring me home at last to Thee,
A Templar.

Our Story Teller.

FROM THE HOSPITAL.

"Yes," said the Rev. Mr. Dibble, "I know I could depend upon the hospitality of my flock to entertain this ex- condition, owing to the exigencies of cleaning house. It will be only for a night or two, and we all know what is promised to those who receive an angel unawares!"

And Mr. Dibble rubbed his hands and looked smilingly around upon the members of the Young Ladies' Aid Association, while a very preceptible murmur of assent rose up from this aggregate collection of curls, bangs, frizzed hair, and crimped laces.

Not a damsel in the number but would gladly have extended her gracious hospitality to the Rev. Felix Amory, who was to preach a sermon in aid of "Home Helps and Missions" at the village church upon the coming Sunday evening.

"I am sure," said Miss Lidia Larkspur, promptly anticipating the crisis, "papa would be most happy to receive the gentleman!"

While all the other ladies looked indignantly first at Miss Lidia then at each other, and whispered, "the bold thing!"

"Most kind of you to promise it, I am sure," said Mr. Dibble, and so the matter was settled, not at all to the general satisfaction.

"And Lidia Larkspur went home, and issued orders that the parlor curtains should be washed and ironed, and a pound-cake of the richest nature concocted.

While Kate Duer, the doctor's sister, who was as fond of young clergymen as Lidia herself, and would in no wise have objected to varying the monotony of her home life with a spice of ecclesiastical novelty, returned to her crochet-work with a yawn and a general impression that life was a bore.

"We are to have a young lecturer from the city in the church on Sunday evening," she said to her brother when he bustled into dinner.

"Eh?" said Dr. Duer, swallowing his scalding soup; "are we? By the way, Kate, there's a new case of small pox reported among those hands on the railway enbankment."

"Dear me!" said Kate, who was compounding a refreshing salad in a carved wooden bowl; "I hope you keep well vaccinated, Hugh."

"Oh, there's no trouble about that!" said the doctor; "only the other patients in the hospital object to such a case."

"I should think it very likely," said Kate, with a little moan.

"I must try to isolate him somewhere," said Dr. Duer thoughtfully. "In one of those stone houses by the river, perhaps. Old Mrs. Viggers has had the disease, I know."

And then Dr. Duer tasted the salad and pronounced it first-rate.

Pitcherville was all on the qui vive that day when the double-shotted piece of tidings flew, on the tongue of popular rumor, through the town. An actual small-pox case in their midst, and a young minister coming all the way from New York to appeal to their sympathies on behalf of home missions."

"I wonder if it is contagious!" said old Mrs. McAdam, looking very round-eyed through her spectacles.

"Contagious!" said Mrs. Emmons; "it ought to find its way into every home in our village."

"What!" cried Mrs. McAdam; "the small-pox!"

"No; certainly not," said Mrs. Emmons; "the sympathetic movement in favor of home missions."

And then everyone laughed. Mrs. McAdam looked puzzled, and Mrs. Emmons drew herself up and remarked that "it was very irreverent to laugh at sacred things."

But Miss Lidia Larkspur, whose father did not believe in vaccination, and who had a mortal horror of the disease against which the famous Jenner waged so successful a warfare, was much troubled in her mind.

"I've always had a sort of premonition that I should fall a victim to the small-pox," sighed she. "I only wish pa would let me be vaccinated!"

It was on a sultry August evening, the sky full of lurid clouds, the air charged with glittering arrows of electricity, and the big drops beginning to knock at Miss Lidia's door—a most mysterious tap, as she afterwards declared.

"Who's there?" said Miss Lidia, opening it sufficiently to obtain a glimpse of a tall pale man with pocket-handkerchief folded turbanwise around his head.

"Excuse me," said this apparition, "but I believe I have lost my way. Might I ask shelter from the shower? I am the young man from the hospital."

"Certainly not," said Miss Lidia, closing the door abruptly in his face, with a little shriek. "Good gracious! have I stood face to face with the—small-pox case?"

And then she ran for the servant and the camphor-bottle, and went into hysterics.

Mrs, Printemps lived in the next house—a picturesque cottage, overhung with Virginia-creepers, with a little plaster cast of Cupid in the garden, and a great many bluebells and carnations—a young widow who read all the newest books and sometimes wrote gushing poems for the second-rate monthlies.

Mrs. Printemps imagined herself like the gifted and unfortunate Mary Queen of Scots, and dressed up to the part, as far as nineteenth-century prejudices would allow her—and she was seated by the casement, trying to find a rhyme to suit a most unaccommodating line of poetry, when the tall pale stranger appeared under her window, "for all the world," as Mrs. Printemps subsequently expressed it, "like a troubador, or David Rizzio himself."

"Excuse me, madame," he began, "but I am from the hospital, and——"

"My goodness me!" ejaculated Mrs. Printemps, jumping to her feet, "how——"

"Madame——" said the surprised stranger.

"Go away!" said Mrs. Printemps, banging down her window and bolting it noisily. "Betsy"—to her girl—"run across the meadow to Mrs. Underlay's and tell her that the small-pox case is rampaging all over the country, trying to get people to let him in, and she isn't to open the door on any account. And stop at Dr. Duer's and ask him what sort of sanitary regulation he calls this kind of thing?"

"I'm afraid I'll meet him, mem!" said Betsy, getting behind the sideboard; "and I ain't been vaccinated for seven years, and——"

"Nonsense!" said Mrs. Printemps. "If you go across the pasture-field you'll get there full five minutes before he does. Make haste now."

Kate Duer was standing in her doorway watching the storm roll grandly over the mountain-tops, when the weary and bewildered traveler opened the gate and came hesitatingly in.

"I beg your pardon," said he meekly, "but I think there must be something singular in my appearance. People seem to shut their doors against me, and shun me as if I had the pestilence. And I cannot find the residence of Mr. Dibble, the clergyman. Would it be asking too much if I were to request permission to rest on your porch until the storm is over? I came from the hospital, and——"

"Oh, I understand," said Kate, quickly. "You are the small-pox patient. But I have been vaccinated, and am not afraid of the disease. There is a very comfortable chamber in the second story of the barn, and you shall be carefully nursed and taken care of there, of——"

"But you are mistaken," cried the young man; "I am not——"

"Hush!" said Kate, gently. "Do not be afraid to confide in me. I am Dr. Duer's sister, and know the whole story. Sit here and rest a little, and I will bring you some bread and milk until my brother comes."

"I am a thousand times obliged to you," said the stranger, "and the bread and milk will taste delicious after my long walk. But I do not know what leads you to think that I am a victim to varioloid. I have lost my hat in the wind, to be sure, and am compelled to wear this Syrian-looking drapery on my head, but I never had small-pox, and hope never to encounter its horrors."

Kate Duer turned red first, then pale.

"Then," said she, "if you are not the small-pox case, who are you?"

"I am Felix Amory," said the young stranger, "the chaplain of St. Lucetta's Hospital in New York. I am to preach in aid of the home mission on Sunday next."

Kate Duer burst out laughing.

"And everyone has been mistaking you for the small-pox case!" said she. "Oh, Mr. Amory, do come in. How could we all have been so stupid? But you see, the minute you began to speak of the hospital——"

"I dare say it was very awkward of me," said Mr. Amory. "But it's the way I have always mentioned myself to strangers. St. Lucetta's, you know——"

"Yes, I know," said Kate. "But to the good folks here, there is only one hospital in the world, and that is the Pitcherville Institute."

Mr. Amory enjoyed his tea, sliced peaches, and delicate "angel cake" very much, as he sat tete-a-tete with Kate Duer by the soft light of the shaded lamp, while the rain pattered without. And when the doctor came in it was cozier yet.

"The small-pox case?" said he, "Oh, that is safely isolated at Hope's Quarry since this morning And doing very well, too, I am happy to say. Upon my word, Mr. Armory, I am sorry that you have had such a disastrous experience."

"All's well that ends well," said the young clergyman, leaning back in his snug corner with an expression of ineffable content on his face.

Miss Lidia Larkspur was quite indignant when she heard that Mr. Amory was staying at Dr. Duer's residence.

"Just like Kate Duer," said she, "to manœuvre to get that poor young man into her hands, after all. But if a man rushes around the country, telling everybody that he comes from a hospital, what can he expect?"

"The most awkward thing I ever heard of in my life," said Mrs. Printemps vindictively.

But this was not Mr. Phelix Amory's last visit to Pitcherville. He came in autumn when the leaves were red—and then in the frozen beauty of winter. And the last time he asked Kate Duer "if she was willing to encounter the trials of a minister's wife." And Kate, after a little hesitation, said that she was willing to try.

And Miss Lidia Larkspur declared that "anyone could get married if they were as bold about it as Kate Duer."

London Bridge.

The first London bridge is said to have been in existence since the tenth century. A bridge was built of wood over the Thames in 1014, which partially burned in 1136. Old London bridge, which existed until the beginning of the present century, was built of stone. It was commenced in 1176 by Peter of Colechurch, who belonged to a religious and labor fraternity called "Brethren of the Bridge." Peter died before the completion of the work, and was buried in the crypt of the chapel erected on the corner pier, in accordance with the custom of his society, which always provided that any member who died when superintending an important work should be entombed within the structure.

The bridge was completed during the reign of King John, in the year 1209. It was chiefly remarkable for its massiveness and the great amount of material used in its construction. It had 20 arches in a span of 940 feet, with piers varying in solidity from 25 to 40 feet, so that two-thirds of the stream was occupied by piers, and in low water even a greater proportion, leaving less than one-fourth of the whole [illegible] for side of the bridge, connected by large arches of timber that crossed the street. In July, 1212, a fire in the city at one end of the bridge brought great crowds of people upon the bridge; the buildings at the other end then caught fire and cut off all way of escape, so that over 3,000 persons were killed, being trampled on, burned or drowned.

In 1300 the bridge was again restored, but was thrice subsequently burned and again rebuilt, in 1471, in 1632 and in 1725. In 1756 all the houses upon the bridge were pulled down. In 1822 the corporation advertised for designs for a new bridge, that made by John Rennie was approved, and the work was executed by his sons, John and George. The first pile was driven 200 feet in the west of the old bridge March 15, 1824; the first stone was laid June 15, 1825, and the bridge was opened by King William IV., August 1, 1831. This bridge is quite an imposing structure of granite, it has a total length of 928 feet, with five elliptical arches, the span of the centre arch being 152 feet, and its versed side 29 feet 6 inches. The cost of the bridge was £506,000.

A Sensible Address.

It is refreshing when, after reading a long and tiresome article by some college professor, to hear the following laconic address delivered to the graduating class of the University of the Pacific by President Stratton. Approaching them with that characteristic blending of fatherly dignity and brotherly warmth, which has made his presidency such a signal success, he said only: "Young ladies and gentlemen of the graduating class, be true—true to your instructors, true to your alma mater, true to yourselves, true to your God, and as your past has been honorable, your future shall be assured." Every auditor applauded with delight; every graduate will remember it for life.

"I say, Gawge, have you made fwiends with your tailaw yet?" "Naw, Oscah, naw! Evah since the awdacious wascal dunned me for my clothes I have tweated him with silent contempt. Yesterday he pawsed and repawsed me, and bai Jove, I looked up and didn't weconcile him. That's the way to treat such wude people, don't chew know."

If one wishes to look long and slender, the front belt is a flat band of velvet or silk two inches wide, pointed downward in the middle with the ends at the waist line and the point below concealing the end of the vest. A fringe of beads may be added to this pointed band.

America's Billions.

The total wealth of our country, now the richest in the world, says Rev. Dr. Behrends, is reported at $43,500,000,000, with a total of 17,500,000 producers. An enormous sum in the aggregate, representing, however, the accumulations of two hundred and fifty years, much of it in land, buildings and machinery.

An equal division would give to each man, woman and child a capital of only $870, much of it relatively worthless to the individual owner, or of $2,500 to each producer. The latter sum represents the limit of average wealth attainable. There is no more to be had.

The same result is emphasized by analyzing the annual production. The most careful estimates place this at $10,000,000,000 annually. From this must be deducted $700,000,000 paid in taxes, $1,300,000,000 to make good the annual wear and tear of the means of production, leaving $8,000,000,000 to be divided among 50,000,000 consumers, without allowing anything for interest on invested capital or for its increase. Allowing five per cent. for these, the net production is reduced to five billion seven hundred and twenty-five million dollars.

Throwing capital out of the account, there is only $160 a year for each inhabitant, or of $115 if capital is entitled to a dividend—an average of from 31 to 44 cents a day.

Forty cents a day must suffice, on the average, to feed, clothe and shelter the people of this country. Or, dividing the actual production among the actual workers, the average income will be between $327 and $475 a year.

Three hundred and fifty dollars a year must, therefore, buy bread, raiment, pay house rent, and provide a margin for saving in every family of three persons; two dollars a day is far above the average income that the productive energy of the country can pay. He who secures it belongs to the privileged classes, with many, perhaps, above him, but with many more below him; and every man belongs to the bloated plutocracy, against whom Socialism urges its crusade, who owns $2,500 worth of property, or who receives more than $400 a year for his work.

Women in Prussia.

The census of the German Empire taken last December—the official returns of which have just been published—[illegible] of the female over the male sex is increasing in Prussia. When the male population numbered 13,893,688, the female population was 14,420.145, an excess of 526,457 females in a total of 28,313,833 persons. Since the census of 1880 the excess of females has increased 77,078, and since 1867 the increase has been no less than 297,000 or 129.46 per cent. The fact is remarkable, and naturally it is attracting much attention in Germany. It is recognized that this growing preponderance of the female sex can only be partially attributed to emigration, though it is well know that far more men than women leave Prussia for other countries. Out of every hundred persons who were enumerated in the census of Prussia in 1867 49.52 were males and 50.48 females, but now the proportion is 49.07 and 50.94 per cent., respectively, the excess of females having increased from 0.96 to 1.86 per cent. in 18 years. Of all the provinces of Prussia only Rhineland and Schleswig-Holstein show a small preponderance of the male sex, while in East Prussia, Posen and Berlin the greatest preponderance of females is to be found. In Berlin alone with its population of roughly 1,300,000 there are 52,419 more females than males.

The Teeth.

Dr. Gilbert.

The teeth should be brushed twice a day. The proper time for this is on rising in the morning and on retiring at night. In the morning a wash may be used. Brush gently over the crowns of the teeth. This removes any mucus that has collected during the night, and leaves the mouth in a refreshed condition. Just before retiring a tooth powder should be employed, and particles of food that have lodged between the teeth removed, which, when left for several hours, result in the fermentation of an acid, which causes softening of the tooth-structure, and thus promotes decay. After eating, a quill tooth pick and floss silk should be used for removing the debris.

Answer: A clock face.

There is one thing we can admire and respect about the publication known as the Congressional Record. It does not claim to have the largest circulation in the United States.

The Sweet Girl Graduate.

"Could I see the editor?" she asked, looking around for him and wondering what was going on under the table.

"Eh! yes, I'm him," responded the editor; evolving himself and slipping a cork in his vest pocket. "What can I do for you?"

"I'm a student in Packer Institute," responded the blushing damsel, "and I've written a little article on 'Our School Days' which I would like to have published in the Brooklyn Eagle if you think it is good enough."

"Certainly," replied the editor, gazing in unconscious admiration upon the beautiful face before him. "Does it commence, 'Our school days! how the words linger in sweet cadences on the strings of memory!' is that the way it runs?"

"Why, yes," responded the beaming girl. "Then it goes on. How we look forward from them to the time when we shall look back to them! How did you know?"

"Never mind," said the editor, with the engaging smile which has endeared him to the citizens of Brooklyn. "After that comes 'So sunshiny! So they have flown into the immutable past, and come to us in after life only as echoes in the caves of sweet recollections.' Isn't that it?"

"It certainly is," answered the astonished girl, radiant with delight. "How could you know what I had written?"

"Then it changes from the pianissimo and becomes more tender: The shadows gather around our path. The roses of friendship are withering, but may we not hope that they will bloom again as we remember the affections that bound us here and made——"

"No, you're wrong there," and the soft eyes looked disappointed.

"Is it 'Hope on, hope ever?' asked the editor.

"That comes in further on. You had it nearly right. It is: "The dim shadows close around us. The flowers of friendship are sleeping, but not withered and will bloom again in the affectionate remembrance of the chains that bound us so lightly."

"Strange that I should have made that mistake," said the editor, musingly. "I never missed on one before. From there it goes, "Schoolmates, let us live so that all our days shall be as radiant as those we have known here, and may we pluck happiness from every bush, forgetting never that the thorns are below the roses, and pitying those whose hands are bruised in the march through life."

"That's it! exclaimed the delighted girl. "Then comes, 'Hope on, hope ever.'"

"Sure's you're born," cried the editor, blushing with pleasure, and once more on the track.

"Yes, yes, you're right," giggled the girl. "I can't see how you found me out. Would you like to print it?" and her face assumed an anxious shade.

"Certainly," responded the editor, "Ill say it is by the most promising young lady in Brooklyn, the daughter of an esteemed citizen, a lady who has taken a high social rank."

"That finishes the school commencement at one swoop," sighed the editor gloomily as the fair vision floated out. "Can't see how I made that blunder about the shadows and roses and friendship. Either I'm getting old, or some of these girls have struck something original. Here, Swipes, tell the foreman to put this slush in the next tax sales supplement," and the editor felt in his hair for the cork and wondered what had happened to his memory.

Failing to Predict his own Death.

The people of Pemberton, N. J., are discussing the singular prophecy of Thomas Cross, a resident of that place, who about a week ago predicted that he would die at midnight on the 18th instant. His acquaintances supposed his prediction was merely a whim, and no particular attention was paid to it. The day following the first prediction he repeated the prophecy in the presence of a number of people, and many were impressed by his earnestness. On Thursday last he made the rounds of the stores at Pemberton and bade farewell to his friends with the remark that he would die the next night. His friends laughed at him and endeavored to cheer him up, but he still persisted in his belief, and a number of his acquaintances agreed to sit up with him to witness his departure. He sat unmoved until with in five minutes of midnight, and then took a drink of apple jack. He is still alive and well.

He Was Good to the Reporters.

Atlantia Constitution.

Hon. Alexander H. Stephens peace to his ashes—was the friend of the Atlanta reporters when he was governor. His treatment of the scribes illustrated the way in which he always looked after details. He never allowed any of the secretaries in the executive office to give out news. Reporters were sent to him. As the governor never went near the capitol the secretaries had a long rest from reporters. Every evening about 7 o'clock the reporters would go to the executive mansion and walk like home folks into the governor's room. They would find the great commoner in his roller chair, smoking a pipe and resting from his day's labors. He nearly always had some good stories to tell in addition to the news, and the reporter would never be anxious to leave. Often Mr. Stephens would have the points of news, the executive orders, etc., copied and ready for the scribes, and the entire visit of the boys would be taken up with story telling. The reporters had a good time and got all the news. Mr. Stephens never suppressed anything the public felt an interest in, but he always insisted on giving the information directly from his own lips.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

Hints to Young Men who Want to Marry.

Select the girl.

Agree with the girl's father in politics and the mother in religion.

If you have a rival keep an eye on him; if he is a widower keep two eyes on him.

Don't swear to the girl that you have no bad habits. It will be enough for you to say that you never heard yourself snore in your sleep.

Don't put much sweet stuff on paper. If you do your will hear it read in after years, when your wife has some especial purpose in inflicting upon you the severest punishment known to a married man.

Go home at a reasonable hour in the evening. Don't wait till the girl has to throw her whole soul into a yawn that she can't cover with both hands. A little thing like that may cause a coolness at the very beginning of the game.

If you sit down on some molasses candy that little Willie has left on the chair, while wearing your new Summer trousers for the first time, smile sweetly and remark that you don't mind sitting on molasses candy at all, and that "boys will be boys." Reserve your true feelings for future reference.

If, on the occasion of your first call, the girl upon whom you have placed your young affections looks like an iceberg and acts like a cold wave, take your leave early and stay away. Women in her hours of freeze is uncertain, coy and hard to please.

In cold weather finish saying good-night in the house. Don't stretch it all the way to the front gate and thus lay the foundation for future asthma, bronchitis, neuralgia and chronic catarrh, to help you worry the girl to death after she has married you.

Don't lie about your financial condition. It is very annoying to a bride who has pictured for herself a life of luxury in her ancestral halls to learn too late that you expect her to ask a baldheaded parent, who has been uniformly kind to her, to take you in out of the cold.

Don't be too soft. Don't say: "These little hands shall never do a stroke of work when they are mine," and "you shall have nothing to do in our home but to sit all day long and chirp to the canaries." As if any sensible woman could be happy fooling away time in that sort of a style; and a girl has a fine retentive memory for the soft thing and silly promises of courtship, and occasionally, in after years, when she is washing the dinner dishes or patching the west end of your trousers, she will remind you of them in a cold, sarcastic tone of voice.

A Hero in Private Life.

The world has other heroes (than soldiers) who uncomplainingly yield up their lives in an unequal fight after displaying such heroism and fortitude as martyrs alone can boast of. The latest example is to be found in the sad death of Editor Jackson, of the Philadelphia Transcript. More than twenty years ago, when Jackson reached the age of manhood, he was warned that he must look forward to a death from that most terrible of diseases, cancer. The scourge smote his grandfather. It killed his father. Seven other blood relations were numbered among the victims. The young journalist was told by eminent physicians that there was no hope for him. Sooner or later, probably between his fortieth and forty-third year, the stroke would fail.

With such an awful shadow hanging over their lives weaker men would have yielded to despondency, plunged into dissipation, or sought relief in suicide. But Jackson redoubled his efforts in the line of his chosen life work. No cloud was seen on his brow and no bitter word ever fell from his lips. He wore a perpetual smile, and men wondered to see him so merry, unselfish and generous. After the disease had seized him in his grip and his days were numbered, he continued to do his editorial work. At last he crawled from his bed and commenced a leader for his paper. It was beyond his strength and he was found shortly afterward lying on the floor where he had fallen. "I give up now," he whispered, "send word to the office that I can work no more."

The female students at Columbia College are to be entitled hereafter "to the same privileges with males." This is all right, but it will look rather odd at first to see the young lady students going along the streets swinging canes, smoking cigarettes, upsetting store boxes, throwing stones at dogs, and so forth—especially the latter.

We should have better preaching if the preachers were all sound and healthy men. Calvin may have had the dyspepsia, but it did him no good as a theologian. A Methodist minister of Hartford, Conn., writes that Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" cured him of chronic liver disease and indigestion. His brethren of all denominations are respectfully invited to note the fact. Sick preachers are, in poor condition to proclaim the gospel news. Sound bodies are wanted.

Colonel Conway is authority for the assertion that the desperadoes of the plains are invariably blondes. However, this may be a mistake. Possibly some of the bad men managed to keep dark while the Colonel was around.

FACTS vs. PREJUDICE

Prejudice is hard to combat. It cannot be overcome in a day. More than likely it wasn't formed hastily. Indeed it may have been gradually strengthening its hold for years. For instance, some folks believe Rheumatism cannot be cured. Their fathers believed so before them. So did their grandfathers.

Now, RHEUMATISM CAN BE CURED, notwithstanding this prejudice, but the trouble is to make people think so. The only way we know to meet popular unbelief is to state the PLAIN FACTS, and then present the POSITIVE PROOFS that they are facts. It is a fact that the RUSSIAN RHEUMATISM CURE not only relieves but banishes Rheumatic Pain. There is positive proof of it too. It comes from those who have suffered untold agony with Rheumatism and have been completely cured by this remedy. All who have tried it have had this experience. Some of them permit us to print their testimony. It makes quite a little book, which we send free to any who are interested enough to ask for it.

A complete Russian Rheumatism Cure, costs $2.50. If mailed, 10c. additional. If registered, 10c. more. You'll never need but one, so the price isn't high. Who wouldn't give $2.50 to get rid of Rheumatism?

As yet it cannot be found at the stores, but can be had only by enclosing the amount as above, and addressing the American Proprietors,

PFAELZER BROS. & CO.,

819 & 821 Market St., Philadelphia.

Annual and Six Months' Contracts at Special Rate

Still Another Veto.

WASHINGTON, July 4.—The president to-day vetoed the senate bill for the relief of Martin L. Bundy. In the veto message the president says that the claimant, who was a qartermaster after the settlement of his accounts, was found to be indebted to the government. Thereupon, he put in a claim for forage for horses, more than sufficient to offset his indebtedness. There is no suggestion that he had or used any horses, and if he did, had failed to make a claim for forage at the time he settled his accounts then.

Says the president: "He presents a case of incredible ignorance of his rights, or a wonderful lack of that disposition to gain every possible advantage which is usually found among those who deal with the government." The claim is not allowed, on the ground that it would set a precedent which could hardly be ignored, and which, if followed, would furnish another means of attack upon the treasury, quite as effective as many which are now in active operation.

Two Fires.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., July 4.—Shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, two boys were playing with matches in a stable in the rear of the residence of George Shepard, when some loose hay became ignited, and in a few moments the building was in flames. A brisk wind was blowing at the time which caused the fierce flames to spread to adjoining stables, fifteen in number, also eight dwellings, which were totally destroyed before the flames could be suppressed. The residences were owned and occupied by John Inkenbrandt, Mrs. Caroline Dinnettim, William Smith, George R. Shepard, William Broakestitt, Henry Cumberts, Fred Eggert and Leonard Hartman. The total damage is estimated between $15,000 and $20,000, with an insurance of seven thousand.

READING, Pa., July 4.—This morning fire consumed about one-half of John K. Boas lumber yard here. Loss from $12,000 to $15,000. The fire was caused by a fire cracker carelessly thrown into a lumber pile.

Three More of Them.

MILWAUKEE, July 5.—Last night, after having been out 23 hours, the jury in the trial of the Anarchist leaders, Frank Hirth, Carl Simon and Anton Palm, found them guilty of conspiracy to burn the court house and destroying the records and of inciting men to riot. For 20 hours the ballot stood 10 for conviction and 2 for acquittal. One of the jurors, alleged to be a Socialist, voted for conviction after the first few ballots. The maximum sentence for rioting or conspiring to riot is one year's imprisonment or a fine not exceeding $500. Hirth is a carpenter and was manager of the co-operative factory started soon after the grand strike several years ago. Simon is a frantic Anarchist. Palm is a hardwood finisher, and has been in this country but a short time. Neither he nor Simon can speak English. The prisoners are all married and have large families.

The Fifth at Gettysburg.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 5.—To-day the One Hundred and Eighteenth, the Philadelphia Corn Exchange Regiment, dedicated a tablet on the wheat field showing the first position of the regiment and the spot where Captain Richatd W. Davis fell. At Camp Hancock to-day there was nothing but the routine of a simple camp life, including the usual dress parade. This evening at the rink there was a fancy dress ball of "Lambs" and "Razors" the merry-makers of the camp. The proceeds of the ball are for the benefit of Corporal S. Kelley, of Post No. 9, Gettysburg. The entertainment was a thorough success.

Gov. Curtin to Retire.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The announcement of Gov. Curtin's intention to withdraw from the congressional race, and, in fact, permanently from public life, created considerable discussion about the capitol to-day. The Governor was overwhelmed with telegrams to-day from all parts of Pennsylvania, inquiring as to the truth of the statement, and urging him to reconsider his determination. But he has evidently not declined for the sake of being urged to take something. He means business. At the same time, he is highly gratified at these evidences of public esteem.

The British Elections.

LONDON, July 1.—Mr. T. Sullivan, Parnellite, was re-elected to represent the College Green division of Dublin in the next parliament, and Mr. W. Murphy, Parnellite, has been returned from the St. Patrick division. They had no opposition. John Bright has been re-elected as member of the house for the Central division of Birmingham, and Joseph Chamberlain for the West division. Neither was opposed. Up to 3 o'clock this afternoon sixteen tory candidates, seven unionists, eight liberals and two Parnellites have been elected to the new house of commons in uncontested districts.

A Tramp Killed.

Special to Harrisburg Patriot.

MIFFLINTOWN, Pa., July 5.—Earnest Hoffner, a tramp, was killed here yesterday by Fast Line Express. He stepped from a freight train directly in front of the passenger train and was horribly mangled and instantly killed. Letters found upon his person showed that he was a member of the Knights of Labor, and also acquainted with the Chicago anarchists, who caused the great riot in that city a short time ago. A self-acting dynamite revolver was also secured upon the person.

Briefs.

CHICAGO, July 1.—The population of Chicago, as indicated by the new directory, which is just out, is over 750,000. The development of the business and building features of the city in the year is reported to have exceeded any other like period. An increase of fifty thousand in the population is shown over last year.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Mr. Powderly spent yesterday at Glen Cave, Long Island, trying to arrange the differences existing beween the Glen Cave starch company and its employes. To-day he is investigating the New York street car drivers' trouble.

HARRISBURG, July 1.—In the list of members of the republican state committee handed Chairman Cooper are W. S. Hammond, Blair; George J. Elliott, Lackawanna; L. C. Dart, Luzerne; J. P. Denworth, Lycoming; George S. Smith, York.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The house today passed the civil sundry appropriation bill. The amendments were agreed to in bulk except those relating to the issue of small greenbacks and small silver certificates, which were agreed to without division.

WURSEBURG, July 1.—An express train on the Stuttgart and Berlin railroad run into a local train to-day, demolishing the latter and killing and wounding a large number of persons. So far nine persons are known to have been killed.

BERLIN, July 1.—The report that Herr Singer, the social democrat, and member of the reichstag, had been ordered by the government to quit Berlin is confirmed. He has been commanded to depart from the city by noon on next Saturday.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The president this afternoon approved the joint resolution of congress providing for fifteen days for the expenditures of the government not provided for in the appropriation bills already passed.

PARIS, July 1.—General Saussier resigned his post of military governor of Paris in consequence of his having been reprimanded by Gen. Boulanger, minister of war, for writing to the Gaulois, without the minister's consent, to defend his staff from accusation that had been brought against it

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 1.—To-day the order of the Board of Railroad and Warehouse commissioners reducing all passengers rates in Minnesota except on the Duluth and Iron Range railroad to a maxium rate of three cents per mile, became operative.

A special to the Harrisburg Patriot says: On Saturday last while Mr. and Mrs. Guss were driving through town, some mischievous boy hurled a firecracker under the horse's feet, frightening the animal, which caused the buggy to upset and throw Mrs. Guss out upon the hard road, injuring her severely.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., July 5.—Pennsylvania Division, Sons of Veterans, held its annual convention here to-day. Officers were elected and a committee appointed to consolidate the Division with the Sons of Veterans of the United States of America. A banquet was tendered the delegates to-night. Harry M. Russell, of Philadelphia, was elected Colonel of the Division.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 5.—The second track on the North Pennsylvania Railroad from Bethlehem to this city, a distance of fifty-seven miles, is completed. The second track was made absolutely necessary by the largely increased traffic of the road.

LONDON, July 5.—Up to 10 o'clock tonight the totals of the members elected to Parliament, were 156 Conservatives, 30 Unionists, 69 Gladstonians, and 29 Parnellites. The Conservatives have gained 17 seats, the Unionists 1 seat, and the Gladstonians 9 seats.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 6.—About 250 members of the Pennsylvania Editorial association are now here. There is no programme for to-morrow, and no business will be transacted by the association. A fishing trip has been arranged, however, which will be participated in by a majority of the members. On Thursday evening the annual banquet will be partaken of, after which a grand hop will be tendered the association on the new iron pier.

York, Pa., July 6.—A 9-year-old daughter of Emanuel Winter, was caught by the hair in her father's mill near Seitzland and drawn on a shaft around which she was whirled several times before she was released. Both her limbs were broken near the thigh and much of her hair was torn from her head. John Kelsey, aged 49 years, received a sunstroke while working in a harvest field near town to-day and died almost instantly.

LITERSVILLE, July 6.—A man named Wilson, residing near Townville, was arrested to-day on a charge of having murdered the two Mrs. Everhart at Lickingville, Clarion county, last winter.

PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—The attention of Democrats has been directed to the selection of candidates for the State ticket now that the Republicans have concluded their work in that direction. Lieutenant Governor Chauncey F. Black and Senator William A. Wallace are the most prominent in the list of those named for the first place on the ticket. It is claimed by the friends of both gentlemen that Mr. Randall favors their particular candidate. Mr. Black's missionaries are working in nearly every county in the State in his interest.

PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—About 7 o'clock this evening as a train on the Pennsylvania railroad was approaching Engleside, two men were fighting on the track, regardless of their danger. As the train reached them, one of the bystanders, whose name is unknown, rushed in and succeeded in pulling the combatants from the track but was himself struck by the engine and so badly injured that he died shortly after.

TITUSVILLE, July 6.—Hyde Town mills, of Sunnsen & Bros., was burned this morning; loss $12,000. Origin unknown.

Troublesome Times.

LONDON, July 6.—A mob of unionists to-day tore down the green home rule flag which was hanging from the window of a priest's house at Brigg, Lincolnshire. The flag was cut into hundreds of pieces and strewn about the street. The priest subsequently displayed fresh banners and hired a guard to protect them.

DUBLIN, July 6.—The lord mayor has issued a proclamation entreating the people to preserve order. Crowds are gathering on the streets to-night and the excitement is intense.

Pensions and Porter.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The President has been engaged the past two days personally examining 141 special pension acts delivered to him June 24 which by reason of the time required by the pension bureau to examine its records concerning them were only ready on Saturday for his consideration. He has carefully studied all the facts presented in the reports made by the congressional committee in each case and special reports prepared for his information by the pension bureau, which are very voluminous and complete. The result of his investigation is twenty bills vetoed and one hundred and twenty approved and signed, one having been recalled. During this session of congress 565 special pension acts have become laws and ninety have been vetoed.

The President to-day nominated Fitz John Porter, late Colonel of the Fifth infantry, to be Colonel in the army of the United States. The following is a copy of the President's message on the nomination: "In accordance with the provisions of an act of congress, approved July 1, 1886, I nominate the person herein named for appointment in the army of the United States—Fitz John Porter, late Colonel of the Fifth infantry, to be a Colonel in the army of the United States, to rank as such from May 14, 1861, that being the grade and rank held by him at the time of his dismissal from the army."

Colonel George B. Corkhill, ex-district attorney of this District, died at Mount Pleasant, Iowa, to-day.

The senate has confirmed the nomination of Hugh Thompson to be secretary of the treasury.

On Gettysburg's Historic Field.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 6.—This morning six hundred excursionists, among them two hundred members of Dushane post, of Baltimore and their friends, visited the camp of the Grand Army of the Republic. They were received by post 21 of Philadelphia, and escorted to camp, where they were entertained at the business meeting of the department. This morning a vote of confidence in Chaplain Sagers was passed. It was resolved to petition the state legislature for an appropriation to erect monuments for unmarked regiments, $1,000 for each. Scranton was fixed as the place for the next February encampment. A score of new posts has been organized since the last adjutant general's report and the order is generally in a flourishing condition throughout the state. There was no dress parade this evening, only the usual concert by the band, followed by a camp fire.

Manning in New York.

NEW YORK, July 5.—Secretary Manning began his summer vacation yesterday by a ride through Central Park with his wife, his daughter and his brother. Upon his arrival at the Fifth Avenue Hotel from Washington yesterday morning he walked from his carriage with a very feeble and uncertain step. Upon his return from his drive in the park he walked stiffly and unsteadily. Twice his colored servant made a motion as though to prevent him from falling. Mr. Manning said that his health was improving slowly. He will stay in New York for several days, and will then visit Albany to attend to some private business. The date for his return to Washington has not been fixed.

Bishop Whitaker will Accept.

VIRGINIA, Nev., July 5.—Rt. Rev. O. W. Whitaker, who has been invited by the Protestant Episcopal Church to become Assistant Bishop of the diocese of Pennsylvania, will in all probability accept the invitation. Bishop Whitaker is a man of splendid scholarly attainment, honest, true and beloved by all who knew him in his wide and varied field of work. He is poor, however, and the decadence in the former prosperity of Nevada, together with its apparently hopeless future, will probably influence his acceptance. People here will deplore his departure, but will, nevertheless, congratulate him upon his elevation to higher honors in the church.

Fatal Accident to a Boy.

SHENANDOAH, July 6.—A peculiar and distressing accident by which one person was killed and two others injured occurred here late last evening. John W. Kregor, son of Coal and Iron Policeman P. C. Kregor, with his brother and two other boys, were playing on a pile of lumber in a street adjacent to Robbin's lumber yards, when the pile fell, burying young Kregor beneath it and catching and injuring two of the other boys. The elder Kregor boy was so terribly crushed that he died a few hours later. The other two boys are seriously but it is not thought fatally injured.

A Great Gale.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 6.—There was a terriable gale at Apalachicola on Wednesday last, uprooting trees, unroofing houses and causing a loss of forty thousand dollars. Six persons, four white and two colored, were caught in the bay during the storm and lost their lives.

The Liberals Alarmed.

LONDON, July 6.—The latest totals of members elected are: Unionists 251, Gladsteneites 141, conservatives, apart from liberal unionists 210. The liberals are alarmed at the list for fear the conservatives may obtain an independent working majority.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

—On Monday afternoon the most exciting runaway which has occurred in this town for a long time took place on West High street. Two wagons, to each of which horses were attached, were receiving their load of freight at the west side of the depot. The horse driven by Kirk Johnston frightened and started to run, the driver being thrown backward on the road, his back striking against one of the wheels. When this horse started the other one followed in pursuit. The runaways successfully turned the corner and dashed up street. No one attempted to stop them until Mr. Hickman Ingraham jumped forward onto High street bridge and brought the first horse to a standstill. The other one, seeing the leader subdued, was easily stopped. A cheer was given for Mr. Ingraham's successful performance. Meanwhile the depot employes picked up Mr. Johnston and carried him into the freight depot. Dr. Harris attended him and in an hour he was taken to his home in a carriage. His back was sprained, but he was not otherwise injured.

Sundry Observations.

The fish on the Court House cannot speak, but it often tells which way the wind blows.

Of all that grows in the garden, corn stalks have the longest ears.

The numerous visitors in town consider it one of the most attractive places in the State.

Private dancing parties are increasing in number and enjoyment.

The boardwalks in all parts of the town are becoming dilapidated enough to renew, though people say they are better than the walks in Philipsburg.

It is said that Philipsburg is a decidedly busy place, and the streets are crowded in the evenings.

Money seems to move somewhat freer in Bellefonte than it has before for a year or longer. All we can put in our pocket moves out at once.

There is gloominess enough in this world; try to be as cheerful as possible.

The most agreeable part of a cave is the outside of it. We always did dislike a cave-in.

As an electric light station, the one in Bellefonte is considered among the best in the United States. Those who began the work here were unusually fortunate in securing careful and skillful assistants and now the manner of conducting the Bellefonte station serves as a model for many others.

The Coal Operators Meet.

At a meeting of the Mountain coal operators held on Monday it was unanimously agreed that so long as the Pennsylvania railroad company continues to pay but sixty cents per ton for coal, thereby fixing the price in the general market, it would be impossible for the operators to pay more than thirty-five cents per ton for mining, that being, as they allege, the price paid by their competitors in the Clearfield, Cumberland and Broad Top, and more than is paid at Pochahontas. Between those present and those endorsing the action of the meeting by telegraph and letter, the operators were unanimous in their conclusions; there being of necessity no room for difference of opinion. The singular feature of the meeting was the number of operators that were personally unacquainted, being called together to consider the question of what wages they would be able to pay the miners.—Altoona Tribune.

THEY say King Otto of Bavaria is madder than King Ludwig was. Perhaps he has seen some of the newspaper pictures of himself.

SPECIAL MENTION.

☞ Any of our friends intending to visit New York, will be pleased to learn that their well-known and favorite stopping place, FRENCH'S HOTEL, is ready to receive them. The house has been in the hands of skilled workmen for months and is completely renovated. Every hall and room has handsome Brussels carpets, and all the furniture is new, and of cherry or mahogany, while innumerable French plate looking glasses adorn the walls in every part of the house. The general dining-room is one of the largest and handsomest in the city, and is, with the private dining-rooms, elaborately furnished. All the sleeping rooms have electric call bells used for awaking guests, without the old-fashioned kicking on the door, and ample ventilation. One of the new proprietors, Mr. F. W. Coleman, was for several years manager and part owner, and still owns one one-fourth of the Carrolton Hotel, Baltimore, and is the son of late and far-famed Robert B. Coleman of the Astor House. The hotel is kept on the European Plan, the price of rooms being $1 per day, and the bill of fare is equal to that of any first-class hotel in the city, though the prices are very moderate. See the card of the Hotel in another column.

—People living in the higher parts of the town were without water Tuesday until almost 7 o'clock. We believe this is sufficiently explained by the enormous quantity wasted on Monday night. It is quite proper to water lawns and streets, but unnecessary to deluge them. If the water tax schedule were accurately fixed according to the quantity used we believe it would range from $1 to $1,000 per year.

AT seventy-five consulates the Republican incumbents have as yet been undisturbed; but it is given out on high authority from Washington that they are soon to be bundled out neck and crop and Democrats put in their places. This will give Secretary Bayard another opportunity to demonstrate his capacity for blundering.

An Exquisitely Lovely Thing.

The most bewitching picture is being brought out, entitled "Little Sweethearts." Probably no picture in any part of the world has ever met with such an outburst of applause. It is being brought out by Graham & Millar, Art Publishers, 146 Centre street, New York. Everybody is sure to want one. They want good agents. Here is a chance to make lots of money. Boys and girls during summer vacation can make a little pile. It isn't often we recommend anything, but "Little Sweethearts" is praised by the best people in the land. 1tdaw —On Friday evening last a party was given by Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Simpson and the Misses Simpson, of Lock Haven. Among Bellefonters present were the Misses Valentine, Mary Thomas, Mary Brockerhoff, Flora Fox, Mrs. James Lane, Mrs. Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Reeder and Messrs, Fred Reynolds, Jno. M. Dale and Newton Gordon.

Children often need some safe Cathartic and Tonic to avert approaching sickness. Simmons Liver Regulator will relieve colic, headache, sick stomach, indigestion, dysentery and the complaints incident to childhood. The printed directions are easily followed by any one. Let the children take the regulator and keep well. It is purely vegetable, not unpleasant to the taste and safe to take either alone or in connection with other medicine, being perfectly harmless.

"Landlord," said a Wisconsin traveler, emerging from the dining-room after a long and fruitless struggle to secure a dinner—"Landlord, there's one thing you have here that is as good as the Palmer House, Chicago." "I am very glad to please you, sir. What is it? "The salt."

IF YOU WANT A CONVENIENT, portable medical preparation, a purgative and tonic, that will purify the blood, sharpen the appetite, and invigorate the whole system, try a box of VINEGAR BITTERS POWDERS—fifty doses fifty cents. These Powders embody the essential properties of Vinegar Bitters, which has been for twenty years the world's great family medicine.

—We do not believe it advisable to reduce the police force at present. The town is no better than it used to be, and this weather is favorable to desperate deeds rather than to obedience to law.

A Pocket Bath-Tub.

Washington Critic.

Closely following the printed instructions the young father rested the rim of the tub on two chairs, filled the aldermanic bulge of rubber cloth with tepid water, and in the pretty little lake he placed the baby. So far all was lovely. The baby crowed just like the one in the picture, and the tub—like the colored troops in the war—behaved nobly. The mother was called to the pretty parlor, and the delighted father decided to join the revels of his boy and thus thoroughly test the endurance of the tub. The sounds of aqueous revelry were at their height. The mother below was telling of the new tub and father and boy were as happy as pollywogs in a country pool, laughing together and freely splashing the rubber cloth that was spread over the floor.

Even the centre of gravity belonging to the two chairs was disturbed by the gayety of the bathers. These useful bits of furniture finally took an active part in the proceedings, and, gently bowing forward, laid down on the portable bath tub. They were intelligent chairs and probably wanted to bathe their eight legs. Then the happy home seemed to be given up to the damp caresses of a water-spout. In the nursery there was a mingling of chair legs, bare legs, rubber, soap, sponges, towels, yells in a high key, and swears in the bass clef, while the water stood two inches deep. In the parlor there was first heard a "dull thud," then the trickling of water from the prettily papered ceiling, and subsequently the crash of a hundredweight of plaster upon a five hundred dollar piano.

It is a good place to draw the veil. That portable bath tub (patented) will not accompany the family to the country. The family will not go. The baby has the croup, the father a sprained back, the mother a full set of disordered nerves and the bills for repairs to family and home have taken nearly all the money saved for the summer's pleasure. The closest friend of the young lawyer would not dare to mention in the latter's hearing the baleful words, "Portable bath tub."

—On Thursday, the 15th of this month, Quarter-master McMillen, with a detail of 40 men –seven men from each company—will go to Roaring Springs, Blair county, to prepare for the encampment at that place. The companies will depart for the encampment on the 16th, reaching Roaring Springs on the evening of that day. On Monday, the 19th, the encampment will be inspected by the regimental inspector, and on the same day the Governor and Gen. Hartranft will be present. The encampment will last until the 24th.

Why is It

That the sale of Hood's Sarsaparilla continues at such a rapidly increasing rate? It is,— 1st: Because of the positive curative value of Hood's Sarsaparilla itself.

2d: Because of the conclusive evidence of remarkable cures effected by it, unsurpassed and seldom equalled by any other medicine. Send to C. L. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass., for book containing many statements of cures.

It may turn out that Senator Logan voted against the proposed investigation of Senator Payne only for the purpose of securing his right to move for a reconsideration of the motion. If that should prove to be the case, the Senator's action, which at present seems rather inexplicable, would shine as an act approaching statesmanship.

The latest evolution in the line of a college degree is that of Bachelor of Journalism. It is to be hoped that the coming B. J.'s will prove fully-equipped in their duties of washing the rollers and sweeping out the office. If they start in on those functions properly they may hope to became newspaper men.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The July number of the Eclectic Magazine begins the 44th volume of the new series, and we find ample evidences of the fact that this stirring periodical justifies its high reputation. No one who wishes to keep himself au courant with the best current thought of Europe can dispense with this magazine. In the present number we find a large variety of papers and many eminent writers represented. Matthew Arnold attacks Gladstone in an article entitled, "The Nadir of Liberalism," and following this paper we have one by Dr. Henry Maudsley on "Heredity in Health and Disease." Frederick Harrison attacks the new pendantry of scholars in changing the orthography of well-established names, and Cardinal Manning constitutes a pungent and suggestive article under the name of "The Child of the English Savage." Laurence Oliphant writes pleasantly about some of his own reminiscences. ("Moss from a Rolling Stone.") Other striking articles are papers on "Longfellow," on "The American Montaigne" (Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes), "The People and their Friends," by a London Artisan, "Criticism as an Inductive Science," by William Archer, and an Astronomical article by Richard A. Proctor, "Whence Came the Comets?" The short articles are bright, suggestive and well selected. This number contains a fine steel-engraving entitled "Blind Man's Buff," copied from Myer Von Brenen's celebrated painting, and, as it begins a new volume, it is a good time to begin a new subscription. Published by E. R. Pelton, 25 Bond St., N. Y. Terms, $5 per year; single number, 45 cents; trial subscription for 3 months, $1. Eclectic and any $5 Magazine, $8.

Every housekeeper knows how obscure and self-contradictory are many of the "Directions for cooking" which accompany food preparations, even those most widely used. Their perplexing absurdity in the case of artificial foods for infants is almost criminal, for where a sick child's life depends upon such foods, which must be easily digested, a serious fault in cooking might result fatally. Marion Harland has been experimenting upon the cooking of a few of the best-known infants' foods with a view to correcting this evil, and the result is a demonstration of the proper method, in each case, of putting the food in a suitable condition for an infant's stomach, independently of the printed instructions. This makes the leading subject in the July Babyhood, which contains numerous other important articles, especially one upon the "Value of Water in Early Life," by H. D. Chapin, M. D., which is extremely simple and practical, and ought to be studied by every mother in the land at this season. An illustrated article on the "Care of Children's Feet" is equally instructive. The department of "Nursery Problems" contains much of timely interest, and there are the usual useful hints all through the magazine, notably one by Miss Juliet Corson, the well-known instructor in cookery, on the importance of water filtration; also Babyhood's prize article on "Protracted Crying Spell." 5 Beekman St., N. Y. $1.50 a year.

In the Weekly Press for June 23, is begun a narrative of the operations of Wilson's Cavalry Corps through Alabama and Georgia in 1865, written by General James W. Latta, formerly Adjutant General of Pennsylvania. The story of this cavalry raid is a very attractive one and is the most complete account of the movement yet published. It will run through several numbers of the Weekly Press and will be read with great interest by those who rode on the picturesque tour and by the many military friends of General Latta in this State. To those who take advantage of our combination offer at once we will send back numbers containing these interesting articles.

Theodore Roosevelt and Henry Cabot Lodge have written two papers on "Cross-Country Riding in America," which will appear in the July Century with numerous illustrations. An interesting illustrated feature of this number is "A Day in Surrey with William Morris," by Emma Lazarus. Mr. Morris' socialistic views regarding capital and labor are fully explained in a letter from him, and the subject is continued by a Western manufacturer, Mr. E. L. Day, and by a New York printer, Mr. Theo. L. De Vinne. Mr. De Vinne points out some of the difficulties in the way of co-operation.

CLEVER CHILDREN.—Almost everyone is interested in children, and will be glad to have a book we have just received from the publishers, entitled "Some Funny Things said by Clever Children," which contains over 500 humorous and clever things said by little people. It will be found by reading this book that wit, humor and clever sayings are not confined to adults by any means. It is a handsome book, and will be sent by mail, postpaid, to any address, on receipt of twelve cts., by J. S. Ogilvie & Co., Publishers, 31 Rose St., N. Y.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

Works through the blood, regulating, toning and invigorating all the functions of the body.

Ringworm Humor and Salt-Rheum.

RAYNHAM, MASS., Aug. 12, 1878.

C. I. HOOD & Co.: Gentlemen— * * * I have had ringworm humor and salt-rheum so badly that my body was covered with raw sores; so, also, my head and face. I have had any number of doctors in the last seven years, and none of them could cure me. One day my mother was in the city of Taunton, and found one of your cook books, and in reading it I found many people testifying to cures from the use of your Sarsaparilla and Olive Ointment. I felt forced to try it, although I had seen many things advertised that never did me any good. I have now taken two small bottles and one large one of Sarsaparilla, and used three boxes of Ointment. I now call myself cured. Nothing can be seen of the humor but the dim outlines of the sores. I shall take two more bottles, and then the cure will be complete.

I am gratefully yours,
EDGAR F. WHITMAN.

Biliousness, Sick Headache.

PITTSFIELD, MASS.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & Co.: Gents—Please send me by express two bottles HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA and a few Cook Books for distribution. Your preparation has worked wonders in the case of my wife, who has been troubled with sick headache and biliousness for years. She only took one-half teaspoonful at a dose, and has not been so well for five years as now. She found that within a week after taking it she felt very much better, and is now entirely free from those severe headaches. She has not taken any of any account since last spring, and what little she had is lent to do some others some good, and we must have it in the house.

Yours truly,
HOMER B. NASH.

OUR CUSTOMERS

Express themselves as being well pleased with our

NEW SYSTEM OF DOING BUSINESS,

And as we are also pleased it is not likely that we shall ever do a

Big Profit and Long Credit

BUSINESS AGAIN.

Our terms are Cash, and positively not over thirty days to responsible parties.

Any farmer that is worthy of credit can borrow money at 6 per cent. and then pay the merchant cash, and save at least 20 per cent., and then if you buy goods at a cash store you don't pay for another man's credit. We have proven beyond question that you can save money by paying cash. A credit store can talk about selling their CASH CUSTOMERS cheap, but they can't do it, and a person with ordinary intelligence knows they can't, and any one that don't know why they can't, we can enlighten them upon the subject. Our experiment has been a success; who knows it better than our customers? We have a Large and Complete Stock for the SPRING TRADE.

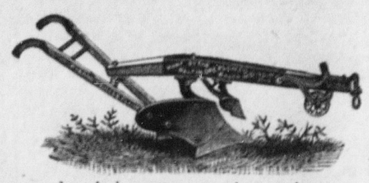
FARMERS SUPPLIES!

PLOWS.



Thorough plowing and pulverization of the soil is the foundation upon which the successful farmer builds his prosperity. To accomplish this, the character of the plow becomes a matter of the first importance. We present the

to our farmer friends with the assurance that it is not a new invention; nevertheless, it embodies all the improvements known to plow manufacturers. It has an established and enviable reputation, of MANY YEARS STANDING, as being the best bevel land side plow now in use. We assure our friends that a BEVEL LAND SIDE PLOW is superior to any straight land side plow.

The ROLAND CHILLED PLOW is manufactured of the best material, and is of the most perfect workmanship. The parts subject to wear are so chilled as to give strength as well as durability.

Its construction warrants light draft, and it runs so steady that a boy who can drive the team can man the plow—either for two or three horses—and execute the best mechanical plowing.

It will clean or scour in any soil from the start. It is furnished with solid or slip-pointed shares for ordinary or deep plowing. It is equally a successful plow in soft, hard or gravelly soil, and will turn a furrow up hill as complete as on the level ground.

We invite a critical examination of the construction of this plow as well as a thorough test in plowing.

We offer it for sale at remarkably low prices, and on liberal terms.

We keep a stock of shares and other parts for the OLIVER and SYRACUSE Chilled Plows.

CULTIVATORS.

—THE—

are the farmers favorite, and need no commendation from us. We are the authorized agents for their sale in this part of Centre county. The CHAMPION is the new Hench walking cultivator, a remarkably neat and well constructed implement, and is a credit to the skill and workmanship of these leading cultivator manufacturers. We invite those in want of cultivators to inspect those on exhibition at our store. We can assure our friends that there are no other cultivators in the market equal to the HENCH.

One-horse Cultivators and Shovel Plows that defy competition in prices.

HAY RAKES.

We are selling the

CHAMPION

horse hay rake for $16.50, and a better rake for $17.50. We sell the hay rake, which is the best hay rake in the world, at astonishingly low prices.

TIGER SELF-DUMP

HAY TEDDERS.

The large crop of grass now growing, will be hard to handle unless farmers use hay tedders. The

BURDICK

HAY TEDDER is the BEST.

HAY FORKS! Double Harpoon Hay Forks. Price, $1.25 each.

GRAIN DRILLS.

We are the authorized agents for the sale of the CHAMPION and PENNSYLVANIA GRAIN DRILLS. These drills are complete in construction, and are guaranteed to sow grain, seed and fertilizers in the best farmer-like manner. We are prepared to furnish these drills at prices which will justify farmers in buying them. Farmers in want of drills will promote their interests by calling on us and examine the drills and prices for themselves.

Buggies and Platform Spring Wagons.

A customer after examining our spring wagons, a few days ago, said we had the best wagons for the least money he had seen in Centre county.

Auburn Road and Farm Wagons.

These wagons are made to our order, with steel skeins or steel axles, and we offer them to our customers with full confidence that they are the best wagons ever sold in this vicinity.

Fruit Evaporators. The outlook for a large crop of good fruit is very favorable. A fruit evaporator does not cost so much money, nevertheless, it can be made more profitable than a cider mill. An elegant opportunity for families of two or three boys to learn a new business and make some money. Call and examine the sample at our store.

FERTILIZERS.

We sell six grades of fertilizers; we assure the farmers of Centre county that we deal in no shoddy goods. In purchasing, the quality is our first consideration and we guarantee every grade of fertilizer we sell is of the quality represented.

CROCKERS' BUFFALO HONEST FERTILIZER

of which we are Sole Agents in this territory, needs no commendation at our hands. It has always realized to the farmer a fair equivalent for the money invested.

In addition to the above we have arranged for the balance of our stock with the Chemical Co. of Canton, located in a suburb of the city of Baltimore, Md.

This company is composed of the Bakers of Baltimore, who formerly conducted the business in their own name and is a house of undoubted reputation for furnishing exactly what they represent.

From this company we obtain five grades of fertilizers—

Dissolved South Carolina Bone,
Dissolved South Carolina Bone and Potash,
Soluable Alkaline Bone Phosphate,
Resurgam Guano and Bakers Standard Guano;

either of which is of the highest standard of quality in its class.

We sold this brand of DISSOLVED SOUTH CAROLINA BONE or ROCK in the vicinity of the Pennsylvania State College last fall—1885—in competition with two other brands, all of which were analyzed at that institution. The Rock we sold proved to be fifty eight cents per ton more valuable than one of its competitors, and four dollars and forty eight cents per ton more valuable than the other, all of which were sold to the farmers at about the same price. This fact should induce farmers to buy fertilizers from dealers who know what they are selling and have the common honesty to sell what they represent.

We invite a careful inspection of the quality of the fertilizers we offer for sale, as well as the prices of the same, including such information as we are always prepared to furnish thereto.

HYDRAULIC CEMENT.

We have been induced to enter into the cement business, for the reason that MR. WILLIAM SHORTLIDGE'S long connection with the Water Works of Bellefonte gave him an extended opportunity to see the effects of using poor and standard cements. We can assure our customers that the cements in which we deal are of uniform quality and of the highest standard of excellence.

We carry a stock of AKRON, ROSENDALE "Hoffman Brand," and the ENGLISH PORTLAND.

The AKRON has been manufactured during the last 60 years and has been used in the construction of some of the most elaborate Railroad bridges and reservoirs in the United States. Thomas Collins, the well known railroad contractor, informs us that he has used thousands of barrels of it, who recommends it as being a most excellent article. The AKRON cement is being used in the construction of the Croton aqueduct, which will convey water forty two miles to the city of New York. This of itself, is a sufficient guarantee of its superior quality.

We sell the ROSENDALE cement "Hoffman Brand," which is so well known that it needs no commendation at our hands. We keep in stock the ENGLISH PORTLAND cement, the best artificial cement in the world.

We exercise our best judgment in purchasing stock, and spare no efforts to furnish what we represent and trust the community will appreciate our motives by favoring us with a share of their patronage.

There is a growing practice of venders calling on farmers to sell them their supplies, who succeed in obtaining higher prices for what they sell, with dinner and horse feed thrown in, than the same articles can be purchased of us at our store. We invite farmers to investigate this matter, examine articles and prices before making up their minds to purchase. Visitors are ALWAYS WELCOME whether they buy or not, and WE TAKE PLEASURE IN EXHIBITING WHAT WE HAVE TO SELL.

Bellefonte Republican.

By EDWARD T. TUTEN.

All for Beaver.

HARRISBURG, June 30.—The Republican State Convention met this morning. Without remarks Senator Cooper directed that the call for the state convention be read, upon the conclusion of which the minor officers were announced, and a list of the delegates was read. There was not a contested seat and the delegations were all full.

The report of the committee on the revision of the rules was then submitted, and, upon motion, referred to the committee on resolutions, yet to be appointed. G. T. Oliver was then nominated by J. W. Morrison as temporary chairman, and the nomination was ratified.

General Wagner, of Philadelphia, was chosen permanent president. A vice president for each senatorial district was also appointed. General Wagner announced the next business in order was the nomination of candidates.

Upon this Colonel D. H. Hastings, of Bellefonte, arose and placed the name of James A. Beaver before the convention as the party candidate for governor. He made an eloquent address. Mr. Hastings began his speech by saying that the Republican party of Pennsylvania was never in better condition than now to enter upon a successful campaign. The honest differences of late years have crystalized its aims and purposes, justified its hopes, blotted out animosities and forever reunited that splendid army. The common enemy, he said, is intrenched in power, state and federal, but the Republicans of the whole state have given voice to their preference for a standard-bearer.

He then paid a glowing tribute to Mr. Beaver, whose character, manhood and achievements have become part of the history of the state. He spoke of his fearless character, his clear judgment, his keen sympathy and his manly course, which none dare to question. "His comrades, who wear the metal star upon their breasts," the speaker continued "they who saw the hole torn across the row of buttons upon his coat while leading his command at Chancellorsville, who were by his side when he fell at Cold Harbor, who saw him blown into the air at Petersburg, and they who followed him two and twenty years ago and saw the flash of his sword when, at Beam's Station, he fell bleeding, marred and maimed, nevermore to tread the earth without the aid of his inseparable friend, that well-known crutch—those are some of the men, kindred heroes, who would have you honor him to-day; and thousands of others all over this broad commenwealth who know his worth and believe in his republicanism, who in many campaigns have heard him give expression to the noblest inspirations of their cause, who beheld the shafts and arrows aimed at him lie brokenat his feet who saw him suffer defeat in civil life, with the same courage that characterized him on the field of battle, have made him their choice; and thousands more of good men and true, who beheld him coming forth from the fury of the tempest in 1882, all glorious in his conscious manhood, with the broken banner of his party in his hand, willing to suffer that it might be purifie,d disenthralled and reunited—all these will, I know, second the nomination which I now make of General James A. Beaver for the office of governor of Pennsylvania."

No other candidates were named for governor, and when Mr. McEvoy, of Philadelphia, moved that the nomination of General Beaver be made by acclamation, it was carried with shouts and cheers.

Nomination for lieutenant govenor being in order the names of Hon. William T. Davies and E. A. Montooth were placed in nomination. The first ballot resulted: Davies 127½, Montooth 122½, Geo. Imes (colored) 1.

On motion of Mr. Magee the nomination of Mr. Davies was made unanimous.

The convention then proceeded to the nomination of a candidate for auditor general and Colonel A. Wilson Norris and Thomas J. Grimeson were named and the former was nominated on the first ballot, receiving 142 votes to 108 for Grimeson.

Candidates for secretary of internal affairs were next placed in nomination, as follows: Colonel S. A. Losch, of Schnylkill; Colonel T. J. Stewart, of Montgomery; John P. Kauffman, of Franklin, and D. C. Keller, of Berks. The ballot resulted: Losch 52, Stewart 162, Keller 27, Kauffman 9. The nomination, like the previous one, was made unanimous.

Next in interest to the nomination of a candidate for lieutenant governor was that of selecting a candidate for congressman-at-large. Chill W. Hazzard, W. S. Kirkpatrick, General E. S. Osborne, J. W. Bressler and W. B. Roberts were placed in nomination. The first ballot resulted: Osborne 91½, Roberts 76, Kirkpatrick 28, Haszard 49½, Bressler 5. The second ballot was ordered and resulted: Osborne 135, Roberts 71, Kirkpatrick 15, Hazzard 24, Bressler 4.

When the last name on the list had been called Osborne had 105 votes, but before the result could be announced several delegates arose and asked permission to change their votes. Then a stampede to Luzerne's candidate began and in half an hour his vote had been swelled to 135, when from sheer exhaustion the convention allowed the secretary to announce the result. An incident of the excitement which ensued after the first few changes of note were made, was the announcement by the chairman, who had been voting for Hazzard, that he would change his vote to Roberts and it was thought for a second that this would check the rising Osborne tide, but if the action had such a purpose it failed.

As soon as the applause with which the announcement of the vote was received had subsided Colonel Frank Manton, who had nominated Roberts, moved to make the nomination unanimous, which was agreed to, with a shout which had not died out when General Beaver and the four other nominees entered the main door of the opera house. A scene of tumultuous enthusiasm ensued and the convention arose in a body and yelled itself hoarse. General Beaver and his fellow candidates mounted the stage, amid the only genuine enthusiasm which had been evinced during the day.

Chairman Wagner introduced General Beaver as the next governor of Pennsylvania and there was more shouting. When this had quieted the General, leaning upon his crutches, thanked the convention, in a brief speech, for the compliment tendered him in an unanimous nomination to the first place on the ticket. He said the greatest work was yet before the convention. It mattered little, he said, "who carried the banner, but it mattered everything what was placed upon the banner. Let there be emblazoned on the banner of the great party the never-failing principles of the party of Lincoln, of Sumner, of Garfield, and of the immortal Grant, and he felt sure the banner could be led to victory. Put in," he said, "those underlying principles which have ever led us and success is assured, not only in 1886 but in 1888 as well."

General Beaver closed his remarks by expressing his readiness to accept the nomination and go forth in the fight at once. Candidates Norris, Stewart and Osborne also accepted their nominations in brief but pointed remarks amid the greatest enthusiasm and the convention then proceeded to the adoption of a platform.

THE PLATFORM.

Resolved, That the office of Senatorial delegate be, and the same is hereby abolished, and that hereafter delegates to Republican State Conventions shall be elected by representative districts only.

Resolved, That Republican State Conventions shall hereafter be composed of delegates elected from the various representative districts, on the basis of one delegate for each member of the House of Representatives to which such District is entitled.

To the end that our industries may be symmetrically developed, our commerce extended, labor receive just rewards and capital find remunerative employment, we demand that the system of protection known as the "American system," which has been re-established, built up and fostered by the Republican party for 25 years, be maintained in its integrity. And we demand further that this system, under which the wealth of this country has been more than trebled in a single generation, and which affords a fair and reasonable protection to our agricultural and manufacturing interests, and the industrial classes employed in connection therewith, be also extended to our commerce, so that by the establishment and maintenance of a commercial marine, we may diversify industry, find new channels for the overcrowded ranks of labor, make use of the products of forest, mine and mill in building our own ships, and provide for the nation's defence as well as the preservation of the nation's honor by training a body of men for service on the seas, furnishing ships which can be transferred to the service of the nation in case of need, and securing the establishment of ship yards and machinery which will enable us, as a nation, to construct entirely within ourselves, when necessity requires, a navy which can meet the demands of modern naval warfare.

The products of the farm and dairy should not be lost sight of in the list of American industries to be protected under the American system, and both National and State Legislatures should protect them from danger and unjust competition, and from any or all adulterations or counterfeits. Our unqualified hostility is proclaimed to the Morrison bill, not only because it is an avowed step in the direction of free trade, but because in design it is intended to permit raw materials to be imported duty free, and thus it strikes at the prosperity of the farm, the mine and the workshop.

We depreciate the nefarious work of importing foreign pauper, criminal and contract labor, or the products of European convict labor, and demand the passage of a national law summarily prohibiting such importation under any pretext whatever.

Labor and capital are right, and should be through custom of law, perfectly mutual; and to the end that their mutual relations shall be strengthened, we advocate at the hands of the National Congress and of all State Legislatures the enactment of proper laws, affording facilities for conference and arbitration, based upon the principle that all men are free and equal, and directly recognising the equality of all the interests involved—the workers, the employers and the people at large.

That Congress should no longer grant any of the public lands to railroad or other corporations, and should confine the sale of public lands to American citizens. We demand the prohibition of large landed ownership, either by syndicate or alien holders.

We indict the present national administration for inconsistency in the methods employed to promote promised reforms; indifference to our industrial and commercial interests, and inefficiency through lack of experience and ability to meet any of the grave questions of the day.

Resolved, That the Republicans of Pennsylvania, in Convention assembled, place themselves on record, as heretofore, against the disfranchisement of the colored citizen, come from what source it may, whether by tissue ballots, by a false count, by intimidation, by murder, by amendment of the Constitution, or by Congressional action.

Resolved, That the Republicans of Pennsylvania demand of Congress that the limitation arrears of pension bills, whereby unjust discrimination was made against applicants for pensions, should share equally and justly in the payment of claims by the Gouernment.

We approve of the bill which has received the almost unanimous vote of the United States Senete, and is now pending in the House, regulating commerce between the States, and call upon the Legislature to adopt a like measure to regulate and supervise freight charges within the State.

WHEREAS, There is an evident desire on the part of a large number of intelligent and respectable citizens of Pennsylvania to amend the Constitution by inserting a clause prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating drinks as a beve-age within the limits of the commonwealth; therefore,

Resolved, That it is the opinion and judgment of this convention that the Legislature of the State should at once adopt measures providing for the submission of this question to a vote of the people, in accordance with the true spirit of our free institutions.

Resolved, That the thanks of the Republicans of Pennsylvania are due to the Hon. Thomas V. Cooper for his efficient services as Chairman of the State Central Committee, and that this Convention recommends that he be retained in his present position for another year.

Trouble in the Camp.

DES MOINES, Iowa, July 1.—In the Democratic State convention to-day a resolution was adopted condemning as an outrage and travesty on justice the action of the state senators who took $216 pay for the recess before the impeachment trial began. Senator Knight, one of the senators who took his pay, branded the resolution as a lie and the man who wrote it as a liar. Proceeding in the defense, he was hissed all over the house and an angry scene followed. He asked the convention if it wanted to denounce abuse, why it did not denounce the President of the United States for going down on his knees to corporate monopoly and vetoing the Des Moines river land bill at the demand of a powerful land ring. [Hisses and cries of "You must not attack the Democratic President."] Senator Knight continued in an impressive way: "Why did you not denounce the judicial department of this government, loaded down with Pan Electric stock and corruption?" [Great excitement and yells of "Put him out"] "I will be heard," said Knight, "and I defy you to come to Dubuque and counties where I am known and hiss me down."

Cato Sells was nominated for secretary of state, and Paul Guilick for auditor.

The Dog Saved Them.

CHICAGO, July 1.—The barking of a dog at an opportune moment early this morning probably saved the lives of a number of sleeping people. At a few minutes after 2 o'clock a large hound, which was kept in rear of August Lindt's residence, 1521 Milwaukee avenue, raised a great uproar. The family were aroused by the noise, and, on getting up, discovered that the back buildings were in flames, and the fire had communicated to the residence. They barely escaped with their lives.

Mr. Lindt keeps a coal yard. The coal shed was entirely destroyed as well as two stables, three wagons, three horses, three carriages, and a quantity of harness. The rear of A. Johnson's house, No. 1519 Milwaukee avenue, was badly burned, and the fire destroyed several sheds and outhouses on Wilmot avenue. The total loss is placed at $7,000, on which there is a moderate amount of insurance. The origin of the blaze is a mystery.

For the Summer.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—It is said at the white house that there is no truth in the report that the president has arranged to make a tour of the lakes this summer. He has as yet made no plans for the summer, but it is more than likely that he and Mrs. Cleveland will pass their vacation in the Northern mountains of New York.

—We believe that the date for the Methodist Sunday School picnic has been fixed for Thursday, the 15th, inst.

—The Y. M. C. A. building fund in Williamsport amounts to $13,000. How much is the similar fund in Bellefonte?

—Rev. Dr. Clerc, of Philipsburg, officiated in the Episcopal church here on Sunday, Rev. Mr. Robinson officiating in the church at Philipsburg.

—The toy pistol should be used with care. It is a dangerous instrument and bites when least expected. It is said to be more destructive than small pox in killing boys.

—It is well to celebrate anniversaries of important occasions in one's life, as it affords all who attend an opportunity to cultivate the social element in their natures.

—Mr. W. E. Fisher, of near Milesburg, has one of the finest farms in the county, which has produced this summer some of the best potatoes and other such produce ever raised anywhere. He is constantly making improvements on his farm.

—The pastor of the Presbyterian church of Bellefonte, must now be addressed Rev. William Laurie, D. D. Last week Lafayette College selected one of its very best Doctors of Divinity titles and conferred it upon our learned divine. The title is very worthily bestowed.

—The friends in this place, of Ex-Governor Curtin, are greatly surprised to read the news given in a telegraph dispatch regarding the Governor's withdrawal from public life. In fact, they take no stock in the report and believe that it originated in the imagination of some scribe who didn't have anything else to write about.

—The Beech Creek, Clearfield and Southwestern Railroad Company was reorganized at Clearfield on Tuesday, the 29th of June, under the name of the Beech Creek Railroad Company. The following officers were elected: President, William A. Wallace; Directors, Cornelius Vanderbilt, William H. Vanderbilt, Daniel Beach, Geo. H. Platt Joseph M. Gazzain and George F. Baer; Secretary, Allyn Cox; Solicitor, Hon. S. R. Peale.

—Our commencement reporter made a mistake in saying that Rev. Charles Steck's lecture before the College literary societies" contained extracts from his lecture on the "Hero." Instead, it was the identical lecture Mr. Steck delivered in Humes' Hall, this place, a short time ago, under the title, "The Problem of Success, and is entirely different from the one entitled, "The Hero." The fact that both are so excellent probably occasioned the mistake concerning the title.

—Last Friday ex-Judge Hoy, accompanied by his son and a son of Evan Blanchard, Esq., started for a ride on the Buffalo Run Railroad. They were taken seven or eight miles distant and expected to return on the train at 3 o'clock p. m. Imagine the discomfiture of the Judge and his young friends when he found that it would be seven o'clock before the train returned to town. He couldn't remain away that long so the three started to walk home and arrived after several hours' tramp weary and travel-soiled. The Judge won't take that ride again until a regular railroad schedule is completed and published. We hope the party enjoyed the scenery along the route.

—The Knights of Labor picnic, Saturday, was a success in the attendance and the manner of conducting it. The parade in the morning presented a pleasing appearance, the Knights turning out in large numbers and accompanied by Company B, N. G., and the Zion band. No lodges from a distance were present in a body, but representatives of lodges in Osceola, Houtzdale, Berwick and other places arrived on the morning trains and took part in the parade, thoroughly enjoying the picnic. The Zion band and an excellent orchestra were present on the grounds and supplied enjoyable music. The dinner was enjoyed, the supply of edibles being much larger than the demand. An address was made during the afternoon by John L. Butler, Esq., of Harrisburg, who is a member of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Labor Statistics under Secretary of Internal Affairs Africa. The music and dancing continued until late in the evening.

Commencement Echoes.

At our request, Mr. George Bush was good enough to send us very full notes in regard to the State College commencement exercises, but owing to the fact that the letters found their way into a post office box to which we do not have access, we did not receive the correspondence until Friday a. m. From it we learn that about 250 guests sat down to the table on the occasion of the Alumni feast. Among the Bellefonters present, were Mr. James Harris and wife, George L. Potter and wife, William Shortlidge, Mrs. John H. Orvis, Dr. E. W. Hale.

Distinguished guests from a distance were Hon. A. Wilhelm, of York, President of the State Agricultural Society: Hon. L. A. Mackey, of Lock Haven; Col. Roberts and Samuel Downing, of West Chester; John A. Woodward, of Howard; Cyrus Gordon, of Clearfield; Rev. Mr. Bain, of Altoona.

From the Watchman of Friday morning we take two paragraphs, as follows:

To Phil Darlington, of Chester county, was awarded the Preparatory Department prize, of a Pictorial History of the late war. To J. C. Struble, of Zion, was awarded the McAllister prize; Harry Patterson, of the State College, received the Agricultural prize; W. P. Fisher, of Unionville, the Junior oratorial prize, and W. M. Porter, of Huntingdon county, the Orvis prize.

The degree of "M. A." was conferred on E. R. Chambers and Prof. D. O. Etters, of Bellefonte; W. C. Calder, of Harrisburg; M. C. Davidson, of Pittsburg, and Jas. C. Houtz, of Selinsgrove. The degree of "D. S" on M. W. Morrow, of Willmington, Del.; Harry Patterson, of State College; G. L. Holter, of Roland, and H. B. McDonnell, of Westmoreland county.

Unionville Items.

A lady by name of Thomas, an "Orthodox Friend" minister, of Baltimore, Md., attended an appointed meeting in Friends meeting house here on Sunday, the 27th, at 4 o'clock p. m. The sermon was well delivered and favorably received. Robert and Bond Valentine, Harry Hicks and some ladies of Bellefonte were there; also many citizens of this place attended.

The young and talented Wm. Fisher, Jr., is among the students at State College, but we presume he was not one of the number who were reported to be so disorderly on the occasion of the base ball contest between some of the college boys and the Bellefonte club some days ago.

His sister, Mary, has just returned from school in Chester Co., looking bright and intelligent.

Commissioner Griest and his associates have been very busy the last week attending appeals over the county. We met with them one day where they had quite a contest with the farmers of Taylor Half Moon and Worth townships in which the latter were successful in many cases in getting a reduction from their assessment.

While manufacturing establishments are being erected in Bellefonte, Lock Haven Tyrone, this little borough should not be overlooked, for we will guarantee our citizens would be quite liberal to the party who will establish a manufacturing concern here which will employ 75 or a hundred hands. The facilities are just as good here in many respects as anywhere in the State for light manufacturing. Property and rent are cheap. On the site where the tannery was burned a large brick stack is standing in good order ready for an engine. The facilities for shipping will be much increased when we get a competing line of R. R. up the valley. J.

A Terrible Burning Accident at Derry

Wednesday afternoon about 3 o'clock, says the Altoona Times, Mrs. James Brown, of Derry Station, and little Johnnie Houston, a neighbor's son, met with an accident that resulted in the death of Mrs. Brown. Mrs. Brown was engaged in canning fruit in a small summer kitchen, adjoining her residence, in which was a cook stove on which she heating wax. On a shelf just back of and in due proximity to the hot stove was a large can of carbon oil, which, by some means, exploded, and the contents were thrown all over the lady and the child, who was sitting on the floor near by. In an instant, both were enveloped in flames, their clothing having been saturated with the oil, and before the nearest neighbors could get to them, Mrs. Brown was so badly burned that she died some hours later. Her clothing was entirely consumed, and the whole surface of her body burned to a crisp, making the scene a sad and distressing one to look upon. The little boy, Houston, was not so badly burned as was the lady, and some hopes are entertained that he may recover. The child had, if we are corectly informed, been left in charge of Mrs. Brown for the afternoon while the parents were away somewhere.

Alumni Day at State College.

On Wednesday, the 30th of June, the interest in the commencement exercises of the State College culminated into intense enthusiasm. At 9 o'clock the artillery salute aroused even the most indifferent into active liveliness. At 12 o'clock occurred the Alumni dinner, which was as brilliantly successful as such events always are at State College. There was some disappointment that public business detained Major Powell in Washington, but the address before the Alumni was delivered by Rev. Mr. Bain, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Altoona, who spoke on, "Work and the Workers." Many people returned to Bellefonte on the special train, which arrived about 11 o'clock.

GRADUATION EXERCISES.

Five gentlemen and two ladies graduated from the college Thursday and the graduation exercises were followed by the address by Andrew Carnegie, Esq., of Pittsburgh, who spoke for about forty minutes on "The American's Heritage," greatly delighting his auditors.

An Esteemed Lady Drowned in a Cistern.

On Saturday morning last, Mrs. Mollie Neff, widow of the late Col. Josiah Neff, of Centre Hill, this county, was drowned in a cistern near her residence. Mrs. Neff and her daughter, Miss Sue Neff, resided together in a fine country residence on one of the best farms in Centre county. She was a lady of about 65 years of age, of excellent physical health, but recently she imagined that she was ill and called in medical assistance. The result of the medical examination was that Mrs. Neff was well physically, but that, by reason of recent troubles, chief among which was the death of her husband about two yeare ago, her mind was becoming deranged and her friends were advised to re-double their care of her.

On Saturday morning her daughter left her upstairs, and on returning to her mother's room not more than twenty minutes afterwards could not find her. She went into the garden to look for her mother and when she approached the cistern she noticed that a plank had been removed. Looking down into the cistern she saw the cold, white face of her mother looking up at her. Death had already set its seal upon her brow.

As soon as possible the grief-stricken woman summoned assistance and the inanimate body was raised from the cistern.

We have faithfully chronicled the above particulars of the lady's death just as they have been reported to us. It is unnecessary to add that the event greatly shocked the people of that entire community. Before trouble came to the lady she was one of the most admirable and beloved residents of that part of the county. Sweet in disposition, possessed of every Christian grace, her sad death causes universal sympathy. We understand that three brothers and two sons reside in the West and are prosperous business men. The shock to them will be very great. The family name of deceased was Emmert, who were formerly prominent people of that section.

The Fire in Philipsburg.

From the Philipsburg Ledger we obtain additional information regarding the disastrous fire which occurred in that place on Tuesday morning, the 29th of June, at 1.30 o'clock. The rink, where the fire started, was occupied by a man named Silknitter as a restaurant, billiard hall and ten-pin alley. The contents of the rink were almost entirely destroyed. There was an insurance of $500 on the rink building and $800 on the contents.

The residence of ex-Sheriff Munson was burned to the ground, though most of the furniture was saved. Insurance, $1200.

The Passmore house was a very well equipped hotel and was occupied at the time by Mr. John West as a non-licensed boarding house. It was filled with guests. The building was damaged beyond repair, but the furniture, carpets and fixtures were saved. Insurance, $7,000.

How They Cooled off.

Work at the glass factory ended Wednesday with the usual demonstration. The glass workers have reason to return thanks to Messrs. Charles Ryan and Frank Cunningham for a gift of fine cigars and a good assortment of fire works. Both the cigars and fire works were fired off during the evening.

When the work was over there was plenty to eat and drink on hand and the West ward school director addressed his merry audience.

"Fellow countrymen," he said. "When in the course of human events it becomes necessary to cool off the furnace and to lay aside our tools for a season; then it is that I become too full for utterance. I wish you all-all-all. Great Scott! I guess I wont speechify. Come, let's sample this liquid refreshment."

All the men report that it was a pleasant occasion.

A School Report.

The teacher of Holt school, Snow Shoe District, sends us the report of the school for the month ending June 25, 1886:

Per cent. of attendance during month—males .76, females .91, total .84.

Per cent. of attendance during term till date, males .73, females .86, total .79.

Pupils who did not miss one day are: Bella Craft, Effie Veihdorfer, Maggie Viehdorfer, Arvilla Fiehdorfer, Nellie Fravel, Sarah Pope, Bertha Pope, Stella Weaver, Blanche Daugherty, Minnie Quick, May Holt, Nannie Holt, Tennie Holt, Minnie McGowan, Frankie Viedorfer, James Pope, Willie Quick, Austin Hinton, Willie Kerns.

Pupils who missed only one day are: Boston Daugherty, John Daugherty, Harry Holt, Sammy Fry, Lemuel Hipple, Maggie Murphy, Stella Brown, Celia Hinton.

—The game of ball on Saturday afternoon between the Mill Hall nine and the Bellefonte nine proved interesting. The Mill Hall nine are good base ballists. They are larger, heavier men than their Bellefonte adversaries, but, nevertheless, our men gave them a spirited contest. The score was 15 to 11 in Mill Hall's favor. Crider, the home pitcher, did very good work. The Bellefonte nine is capable of creditable work on the base ball field.

Miraculous Escape.

W. W. Reed, druggist, of Winchester, Ind., writes: "One of my customers, Mrs. Lousia Pike, Bartonia, Randolf Co., Ind., was a long sufferer with consumption, and was given up to die by her physicians. She heard of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and began buying it of me. In six month's time she walked to this city, a distance of six miles, and is now so much improved she has quit using it. She feels she owes her life to it."

Free Trial Bottles at J. ZELLER & SON'S Drug Store.

—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company will again this summer offer to the public a number of select excursions from principal points in Western Pennsylvania to the resorts of the New Jersey coast. The first excursion of this season will be run on Thursday, July 8. The points embraced in the tickets are Long Branch, Ocean Grove, Asbury Park, Atlantic City, Sea Isle City and Cape May. Tickets good for ten days. The fare from Tyrone will be $7.65, for round trip. Train leave at 1.25.

—The thirty-second annual meeting of the State Teachers Association of Pennsylvania will be held at Music Hall, Allentown, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, July 6, 7 and 8. The programme contains the names of a large number of leading educators of the State, and the meeting promises to be one of the largest and most interesting educational gatherings held in the State for a number of years. Boarding can be had from $1 to $2 per day.

One of my children, a girl about nine years old, had a very bad discharge from her head and nose of a thick, yellowish matter, and was growing worse. We had two different physicians prescribe for her, but without benefit. We tried Ely's Cream Balm, and much to our surprise in three days there was a marked improvement. We continued using the Balm and in a short time the discharge was apparently cured.—O. A. Cary, Corning, N. Y.

—The picture of Gen. Beaver, printed in the Philadelphia Press on Thursday, was the most horrible in appearance we have ever seen of him. The platform, as given in that paper, also seemed to be much mixed, and it was difficult to understand its meaning. All the other papers published it correctly and clearly.

"Dozens of Letters a Day pour in upon Dr. David Kennedy, of Roundout, N. Y., from people who have been benefitted by using his popular preparation called Kennedy's 'Favorite Remedy.' And they often illustrate what this remarkable medicine accomplishes in some new and hitherto untried field of operation. Not infrequently patients come long distances to grasp the Doctor by the hand and express their gratitude for deliverance from pain.—Troy (N.Y.) Daily Times.

—The next Governor of Pennsylvania arrived home at 5.20 o'clock p. m. Thursday and went at once to his residence, where he spent the evening with his charming family. We doubt not that he was weary with the excitement of the previous few days, but his appearance did not indicate any fatigue.

AN EXTRAORDINARY OFFER.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, ON ITS MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every householder, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its salability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $200 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through sub-agents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $750 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and these we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer, to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money. RENNER MANUFACTURING CO., 116 Smithfield St., Pittsburg, Pa.

FEARFULLY COMMON.

Kidney Complaints Among Both Sexes and All Ages A Brilliant Recovery.

There is something startling in the rapid increase of kidney diseases among the American people within a few years past. Many causes peculiar to certain classes tend to produce and aggravate these troubles—as, for example, careless living, overwork and exposure. Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., is often congratulated on the exceptional success of his medicine called "Favorite Remedy" in arresting and radically curing these most painful and dangerous disorders. Proofs of this, like the following, are constantly brought to his attention, and are published by him for the sake of thousands of other sufferers whom he desires to reach and benefit. The letter, therefore, may be of vital importance to you or to some one whom you know. It is from one of the best known and popular druggists in the fine and growing city from which he writes, where those interested may find Mr Crawford at his place of business on the corner of Main and Union streets:

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., March 22, 1884.

Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

DEAR SIR: For ten years I had been afflicted with kidney disease in its most acute form. What I suffered must be left to the imagination, for no one can appreciate it only those who have gone through it. I resorted to many physicians and to many different kinds of treatment, and spent a great deal of money, only to find myself older and worse than ever. I may say that I used twenty-five bottles of a preparation widely advertised as a specific for this precise sort of troubles, and found it entirely useless—at least in my case. Your "FAVORITE REMEDY"—I say it with a perfect recollection of all that was done for me besides—is the only thing that did me the slightest good, and I am happy to admit it gave me permanent relief. I have recommended "FAVORITE REMEDY" to many people for kidney disease, and they all agree with me in saying that DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY has not its equal in the wide world for this distressing and often fatal complaint. Use this letter as you deem best for the benefit of others. Yours, &c.,

—Numerous private picnics have been held during the past few days.

—A pleasant gathering of young people occurred on Tuesday evening at the residence of ex-Judge Orvis.

—A company of young people, largely composed of the Eclectic Club, went to the Penn Cave Wednesday morning.

—The farmers have reason to rejoice over the wonderful period of hay-making weather with which they have been favored.

—Major Wm. F. Reynolds improved the holiday afforded by Monday in placing new stone steps at the entrance to his bank.

—We hope that Mr. Hard Harris did not again have the unpleasant experience of tumbling in the water of the cave Wednesday.

—It has been suggested that if some one can invent a pocket refrigerator that will keep one cool all over the fortune of the inventor is made.

—The entertainment given by the Methodist Sunday-school at Milesburg on Friday evening, the 2d, is reported to have been a success in all respects.

—Although the past few days have been very hot and steadily waxing hotter, and part of them were given up to patriotism, there has been noticeably little drunkenness and no fights.

—A game of base ball between the Mill Hall nine and the Lock Haven nine, on Monday, resulted in a score of 15 to 14 in favor of Mill Hall. The game was played in Lock Haven.

—The contract for the erection of the new iron furnace has been let to Mr. James P. Witherow, of Pittsburg. The site will be on the ground occupied by the present Valentine Ironworks.

—Gen. Beaver delivered an eloquent speech in Lititz, Lancaster county, on the fifth of July. His address was historical and was listened to with rapt attention by five thousand people.

—Rev. J. W. Bain was formally installed pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Altoona, on Tuesday evening, Rev. J. C. Kelly, of Pennsylvania Furnace, delivered the ordination sermon.

—The Episcopal Sunday-school picnicked Wednesday at the Intersection. One of the pleasant features of the picnic—at least to the pupils—is that their railroad fares were paid by Major Wm F. Reynolds.

—Mr. Yeager and sons went to Snow Shoe Tuesday to procure a new supply of stone. They will resume work on the Roman Catholic Church here as soon as the stone arrives and the workmen are procured from the city.

—While the eighteen visiting Masons waited in front of the Bush House for their train Wednesday they were entertained by Mr. F. P. Blair and several other Bellefonte gentlemen. Among those who escorted them to their car were Col. D. H. Hastings and Walter Bayard.

—Private cars arrive in Bellefonte almost daily now, each one containing distinguished visitors. One arrived last evening and brought twelve of the residents of Lancaster. The visitors will remain here two days. Among them is Chairman Hensel of the Democratic State Committee. While in town they will be the guests of Major Wm. F. Reynolds.

—Everything which Mr. L. T. Eddy, of Milesburg, undertakes to do seems to meet with great success and therefore we are not surprised to hear of the success of the entertainment given by the Methodist Sunday-school at Milesburg last Friday evening. The results included quite handsome financial receipts, which we believe, will be devoted toward the purchase of a new library.

—A young man named Kunes, who lives at Eagleville came home to that place from Jefferson county, Tuesday morning. He was in a demoralized condition and relates that while at Blue Rock, near Ridgway, he jumped from a train and fell near the track, a freight train passing over his fingers. Both hands are injured and two fingers are missing from one. He also has a bad cut on the head.

—The markets remain firm. New potatoes have forged their way to the front at $1.20 per bushel, sending the old potatoes to the rear. Eggs, which touched 10 cents per dozen a few weeks ago, are now steady at 12½ cents. Much fine hay is harvested and it is bound to be cheap. There is as yet no change in the price of grains. Cultivated raspberries were never plentier or better. The best are 15 cents per quart. Currants are still offered for sale, but do not become abundant enough to bring them in the reach of all who would like to make currant jelly.

REUNION AT THE ACADEMY.

Two Hundred of the Former and Present Pupils of Rev. James P. Hughes and Wife Assemble to Celebrate an Anniversary.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS OF MARRIED LIFE.

On Friday evening the old Bellefonte Academy was the scene of a brilliant gathering. Its venerable walls are hallowed by associations of educational and social importance, but never before perhaps was it the centre of so much that is attractive, gay and enjoyable.

Mr. and Mrs. Hughes have presided over the destinies of the Academy for a period of eighteen years, but their experience as educators of youth far exceeds that in time and influence. Thursday last being the twenty-fifth anniversary of the day when they plighted their troth at the marriage altar, they conceived the idea that a reunion of pupils and immediate relatives would be the best mode of celebrating the event, and accordingly bade such persons to assemble beneath their hospital roof, for convenience, however, naming Friday as the date of the celebration.

As early as 5 o'clock p. m. the invited guests wended their way up the hill of science. The evening was one of the most agreeable of the season, and after disposing of their light wrappings, the guests grouped themselves in the refreshing shade of the long covered porch. By eight o'clock about two hundred persons were present.

The host and hostess had received many costly presents in silver, china and other varieties of ware and also numerous superb articles of furniture. These filled an apartment on the second floor and were duly admired.

Mr. and Mrs. Hughes received congratulations, and looked as if not one iota of their youthful happiness had vanished. Indeed, they had reason to feel that the occasion was the most happy one of their lives, for they could look around them and see in all degrees of advancement, the fruit of their faithful and earnest endeavor. It was an experience which not another person in Centre county can enjoy so completely.

Of course, the always bright and handsome young and old people of Bellefonte who were present will excuse us for not mentioning their names, and we shall enumerate only a few of the strangers who were present. Among these were Miss Annie Henderson, of Williamsport, Miss Lulu Stevenson, of Delaware, Miss Minnie McClaren, of Pittsburg; Miss Alice Rhoads, of Philadelphia; Miss Carrie Quigley, of Eagleville; Miss Annie Williams, of Philipsburg; and Messrs. H. B. Woolston, of Camden, N. J., Howard Rhoads, of Philadelphia, and—Finley, of Altoona.

Much of the conversation during the earlier part of the evening was on the subject of the pleasant school memories which filled the mind of each one. Some of those present had attended the school when Mr. Hughes first took charge eighteen years before.

A large portion of the young folks enjoyed themselves in dancing in the school room in the front part of the building.

At nine o'clock the summons came to repair to the banqueting hall in the school room in the new building, where five tables were spread and, with genuine hospitality, covers laid for even a larger number than sat down to the grand feast. The decorations of rhododendron and fern in this room were handsome. The figures '61 and '86 suggested the dates of two great events and in the centre the inscription, "Welcome" convinced all that no effort was spared to make each one feel thoroughly at home.

J. W. Gephart, Esq., presided at the table as master of ceremonies, and called on Rev. James P. Hughes to invoke a blessing, after which the contents of the tables were attacked with an avidity unsurpassed in the annals of such occasions. Major McMillen, the caterer, succeeded in serving everybody promptly and generously, with such viands as cold meats of all kinds, salads, pickles, cakes, coffee and ice cream.

After about an hour was consumed in doing full justice to the enjoyable menu, Mr. Gephart made a speech introductory to a few toasts which he designed to call for. He requested Prof. D. M. Lieb to respond to "Education," which he, as a teacher, is so well prepared to do. Prof. Lieb has an abundant experience to draw from, and could testify to the fact that the Academy, though so insufficiently equipped, nevertheless maintains a rank for thoroughness in the preparation of pupils sent out from it second to none of the far-famed New England Academies.

It was a subject of regret that Mr. Harry Williams, the able and versatile editor of the Philipsburg Ledger, was not present to respond to "The Press," when that toast was called for, and Mr. N. S. Bailey, to the best of his ability, acted as Mr. Williams' substitute, which he felt to be a great honor, considering that he had never been privileged to be a student of the Academy.

"Life Insurance" elicited two responses, the first from J. C. Weaver, Esq., of Bellefonte, who indulged in a few figures illustrative of the importance of that branch of human enterprise, and the second by Mr. Finley, of Altoona, who made general remarks on the subject.

The "Legal Profession" had an able representative in Ellis L. Orvis, Esq., who spoke not only of that, but also impressed on all present the fact that they may act as levers in lifting from the beloved Academy the "dark cloud" of financial embarrassment which now weighs as an incubus in hindering its material and worldly success.

The hour being late and the applause so emphatic and long continued, the concluding speech was accorded the host, and all the pupils agreed with Mr. Gephart in pronouncing it the shortest and best lecture their honored instructor had ever delivered. With the wish voiced by Mr. Gephart, that the coming 25 years of Mr. and Mrs. Hughes life may be even more successful than the past, the happy company departed from the banquet.

Soon after, the leave taking began, although many of the guests lingered until midnight.

As was observed by a guest present, who does not usually do much talking, but makes up for it with much excellent thought, Mr. Hughes has perhaps done more for Centre county than any other citizen within its bounds. And this observation impresses us as being a wise one when we reflect upon the glory which has come to this community as a direct result of the work of Mr. Hughes, supplemented by that of his accomplished wife.

A Social Event Near Milesburg.

On Wednesday afternoon, June 30th, the friends and acquaintances of Mr. and Mrs. William Leightley had a surprise party to celebrate the golden wedding of the aged couple.

When the ladies arrived, and in response to their loud raps upon the door, Mrs. Leightley opened it to see what was the matter, and found many friends assembled, all bearing baskets of provisions, she was so completely astonished, that for a few moments all language forsook her, but at last when she saw the invaders taking full possession, she thought she had better go and tell her husband about it, who soon returned with his spouse, his countenance likewise depicting his surprise.

Soon, however, the confusion attendant upon their arrival had somewhat subsided and order was again restored, when some of the ladies upon "hospitable cares intent," repaired to the culinary department, and in a short time the table was set out and filled to its utmost capacity—until, indeed, had it possessed the power it would have groaned at the multifarious load of cakes, ham, beefsteak, chicken and what not that was piled upon it, and to which full justice was done by all present.

Soon after the supper things were cleared away, most of the ladies returned to their homes, but a few remained, ostensibly to spend the evening with the venerable bride and groom; but the real reason was that they were in the secret, and knew that in the evening the young folks were coming with a load of presents and preceded by the Cornet Band.

So at the hour agreed upon, the whole company arrived and again the surprise was perfect. The presents, which were numerous, were carried into the house by the donors and placed upon the table, after which the band discoursed some most excellent music, followed by Mrs. Rose J. DeWoodie, who was dressed to represent the "Widow Bedott," and in that character gave a humorous recitation, which, like the remarks she was called upon to make in the afternoon, as well as the recitations "Socrates Snooks" and "Miss Maloney on the Chinese Question," were well received by all present.

All then repaired to the residence of Mrs. Baldridge, where Miss Emma Stevens, who was the organist, assisted by Miss Emma Strickland, Messrs. Myers, Packer and Noll, rendered two very appropriate songs in a most delightful manner. After this, all repaired to the lawn, where fun and mirth held full sway for a few hours, and the veteran bride and groom proved to all by ocular demonstration that they had not yet forgotten how to trip the "light fantastic toe," as well, and with as much vim and vigor, as their younger competitors. In fact, they apparently enjoyed themselves as much as any of the guests, taking an active part in all the mirth and festivity of the evening.

But as all things upon "terra firma" must have a termination, so this halcyon time had to come to an end, at length, and the company repaired to their homes, every one feeling happier for having been present and for having tried to make this aged couple happier, by showing their appreciation and friendship for those two who have traveled together for two score and ten years in the journey of life.

It was, in short, in all respects a gala time—a grand success.

BETZ. HAZELS.

Important!

All who cannot read music should avial themselves of the opportunity of the Rudimental Class in vocal music held in the Association Hall. The first lesson will be given on Thursday morning at 9:30. A term of twelve lessons will be given, three lessons each week, terms are moderate. By applying to the Instructor, C. E. Schaeffer, any information regarding the admission to the class can be obtained. A set of Dr. Lowell Mason's Charts have been provided for the purpose of making the instruction comprehensive—and understood by all.

A Correspondent at Dinner and Supper.

Among the very delightful trips made by a correspondent of this paper in different parts of the county the one up Buffalo Run in the neighborhood of Fillmore he remembers with a great deal of pleasure. The lively hum of the mowing machines, the merry laughter of the well-fed harvest hands and the fragrance from the new-mown hay filled him with delight and increased his already sharpened appetite. While driving about these pleasant scenes, our correspondent reached Mr. J. H. Reeser's residence shortly after the men had set down to dinner. A plate was soon put down for him and he eagerly devoured great quantities of mutton and an abundance of many other good things. After dinner Mr. Reeser kindly showed him some of the finest live stock in that section of country. Mr. Reeser has seven young colts. When we consider that he is not a stock farmer, he certainly takes the lead.

Before getting entirely out of the neighborhood of Fillmore the correspondent came across another jolly harvesting crew, employed by Mr. Tate, who is as clever and gentlemanly as the day is long. Of course, he took advantage of the opportunity thus afforded to converse with these gentlemen until supper time. Mr. Tate kindly invited him to partake of a generous hospitality, which this time was a bountiful supper. It was, like all harvest suppers, very enjoyable. Mr. Tate exhibited four very superior colts, which were raised on the famous Chestnut Ridge Stock Farm.

Business for the Borough.

Mr. William Hillibish was made President pro tem. of council on Monday evening, but surrendered that position when council was half over and the regular President entered.

After the minutes were read Major Wm F. Reynolds appeared to ask for a grade for his new pavement on Linn street. The matter was referred to the Street committee with instructions to endeavor to induce the Major and Mr. Milliken to compromise upon a grade which will be satisfactory to both or else accept the regular grade given by the borough engineer.

A report was submitted embodying resolutions that the police force be reduced from 3 to 2 and that in consideration of the fact that the chief of police is also constable, his salary be reduced from $30 to $25 per month. Consideration of this report was, on motion, postponed until the next meeting.

Bonds to the amount of $11,000 have been refunded, the amount being divided into eleven bonds of $1,000 each at 4 per cent. interest per annum.

The water tax schedule was submitted, read and approved. The time for appeals of water tax was fixed for July 14, at 2 o'clock, p. m.

Death of Mrs. Lydia Grove.

On Monday night the death of Mrs. Lydia Grove, of this place, occurred at her home on Logan street. Mrs. Grove had suffered from cancer and that disease—so often fatal—caused her death.

She leaves three children, the youngest of whom is, we believe, sixteen years of age. Mrs. Grove lacked only one month of being 47 years old, having been born in August of 1839.

She was a most excellent lady and there will be many who will sincerely mourn her departure from among them, but who may well rejoice that she has entered a city where suffering and pain are unknown.

The funeral services over her remains will be held at her late residence at 9 o'clock on Thursday morning, the interment to take place at Zion, this county.

Dr. Monroe in Altoona.

The Altoona Tribune, Monday morning, said: "Rev. D. S. Monroe, of Bellefonte, occupied the pulpit of the Eighth avenue Methodist Episcopal church yesterday, morning and evening, preaching on both occasions to large and attentive congregations. We had thought once to give a brief synopsis of one or both of these discourses, but after a glance at our meagre notes and with the memory of his glowing images, his apposite illustrations and his great eloquence fresh upon us, we refrain, for a mere sketch would do injustice to the speaker and to the grand gospel messages which he delivered. Dr. Monroe is a favorite in Methodist pulpits, and we do not wonder. He preaches with great power and unction the same gospel which nearly nineteen hundred years ago began to turn the world upside down."

They Happen only in Summer.

Numerous unexpected events occur to every one in Summer which cannot happen at any other time in the year. One of these which of course suggests itself to the habitual scribe is that of the "big bug" which comes to visit you when the lights are burning brightly in the evening. Intent upon the writing of some article, it is so pleasant to have one of these visitors come bobbing in your face, crawling over your paper or singing a song near you. Of course, the thread of thought must be interrupted until the aforesaid visitor is chased away or exterminated.

Pass through an open gateway or door and the way may be unobstructed, but return five minutes thereafter and one is certain to come in contact with a spider's web, spun just high enough to be level with one's face. It is a little thing, but it causes disagreeable sensations.

Personal Pencilings.

Mr. Newall, of Lock Haven, is canvassing Bellefonte for a valuable historical work by Hon. S. S. Cox.

Mrs. W. B. Rankin and two children came home on Tuesday, after twelve days' visit in Williamsport.

Mr. James H. McLain, of Massilon, Ohio, is visiting in Bellefonte at the home of Mr. Henry P. Harris.

Mr. and Mrs. William Fries, of Unionville, were in Bellefonte on Tuesday. During last winter Mr. Fries was very unfortunate in having his house, at Snow Shoe, destroyed by fire. He has also been suffering with severe illness for several months. We hope to hear of his permanent recovery.

Mr. Maurice W. Yeager, recently the accomodating and pleasant clerk at the New Brockerhoff House, Bellefonte, is now with the St. Charles Hotel, at the ocean end of Delaware Ave., Atlantic City. The hotel is one of the finest at the popular resort and Mr. Yeager will be an acquisition to it. Bellefonters who sojourn for a season at that pleasant coast resort will be accorded a pleasant welcome by Mr. Yeager.

The School House Question.

In important transactions, it is perhaps well to make progress slowly, but such very moderate rate of progress as has characterized the proposed erection of a new school house is too slow for this age. Indeed, it almost seems as if the change of base was backward instead of forward. The money is borrowed and is bearing interest and the money lender is happy, but will the people have a new building this season? Doubtful.

We understand that the intention to erect a building on the old school lot in the North ward has been abandoned, and negotiations are in progress to purchase a lot. One piece of ground in view is a property belonging to the Harris heirs at the junction of the Lewistown turnpike with Spring street. This piece of ground is a fraction less than nine ordinary lots in dimensions. The other property under consideration is a piece of ground beyond McDermott's property on the south side of east Bishop street. It is almost half a mile from the court house and perhaps as far from parts of the West ward as the present building is. It is a fraction more than six ordinary building lots in extent. We are told that the original price of each of these properties was $3,000, but that the Blanchards, who own the last-mentioned property, fell $500 in price

We understand that the purchase is not yet completed, and although the school board should not delay in making a selection and purchase, they should act wisely in regard to location. The present disposition of the Board seems to be to purchase the Blanchard property. We shall not express an opinion on the subject, but with this statement of the situation, leave the subject with the Board and the people.

Gored to Death by a Bull.

The Lock Haven Express relates that Mrs. Samuel Walker, wife of a well-known Nittany Valley farmer, died at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning from injuries received on Saturday by being gored by a vicious bull. Mr. Walker and his men had gone to the field for a load of hay, leaving the barn doors open, and the cattle having entered the barn, Mrs. Walker went from the house and attempted to drive them out. A bull that was among the herd rushed at the lady, knocking her down and goring her with his horns and stamping her with his feet. The hired girl saw the occurrence, ran to Mrs. Walker's assistance and drove the beast away. The men were called from the field and Mrs. Walker carried to the house. Medical aid was summoned as quickly as possible, but the skill of the physician was of no avail, and the poor woman's injuries resulted fatally.

Death of a Native of Centre County.

Mrs. Clara Benner Ray, wife of Daniel P. Ray, Jr., died of that dread disease, consumption, at her home in Tyrone, on Sunday evening. Deceased was born at Potters Mills, this county, June 12, 1857, and was therefore only 29 years of age. She was the sixth of eight children born to Horatio P. and Mary L. Cadwallader. She was married when only twenty years of age and six children were born to her, only three of whom are living. Her disease first showed itself about two and a half years ago. All that medical skill and change of air could devise was done for her, but she constantly became more feebie until death ended her suffering. The funeral services occurred at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

—The Masonic Chapter of this place was honored, on Tuesday evening, by a visit from eighteen officers of the Grand Holy Arch-chapter of Pennsylvania. They arrived on a special car at 5.20 p m. The visitors were George Kendrick, Jr., James S. Barber, Charles E. Meyer, J. Alexander Simpson, William A. Piper, M. D., Ellsworth H. Hultz, Edward P. Knipe, Charles H. Downing, John W. Haseltine, L. Hassell Lapp, Edward Masson, Harry L. Kingston, Wm. A. Linn, John Keller, Jr., Edward B. Spencer, Charles W. Packer and John L. Young, of Philadelphia, and Thaddeus S. Adle, of Norristown. While in town the gentlemen were quartered at the Bush House They departed from here to Huntingdon.

—The hardware store of James Harris & Co. was closed Monday—celebrating the Fourth of July.

Personal Pencilings.

James Laurie is at present at his parents' home in this place.

Mr. W. E. Hamer, dispatcher at Vail Station, spent Saturday in Bellefonte.

Mr. Harry Baney returned to his business in Philipsburg on Tuesday evening.

Miss Jennie Lukenbach is visiting her friend, Miss Lydia Gutelius, of Millheim.

W. W. Hayes, of Washington, D. C., is at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. P. Gephart.

Leonard Rhone, Esq., of Centre Hall, talked politics with his friends here this morning.

Miss Grove, of the State College, favored Bellefonte with her presence Friday morning.

Mr. C. De Lacy Ivans arrived from Baltimore on Thursday to join his wife in this place.

A. A. Dale, Esq., spent last week at State College, enjoying the commencement exercises.

Prof. Bierly, the musical instructor, arrived in Bellefonte Monday morning over the Lemont road.

Mr. Underwood, of Spring Mills, arrived in Bellefonte Wednesday on a business mission.

Mr. Charles Noll, son of Mr. John Noll, is learning the photograph business with J. A. Finkbinder.

Miss Lily Barrett, of Philadelphia, is visiting her sister, Miss May Barrett and other friends in Bellefonte.

On Tuesday evening, June 29, Rev. William Anderson was installed pastor of the Presbyterian church at Duncansville.

Mr. C. Bentz and Mr. L. A. Gerberich, Deputy Sheriff of Lebanon Co., are visiting the Sheriff's brother, C. T. Gerberich, of this place.

The home of Major William Reynolds is filled with guests, among them being Mrs. Samuel Reynolds, of Lancaster, and her daughters.

Prof. Barnard, of State College, was a caller at this office on Saturday. His presence was very agreeable and we hope he will call again.

Frank Van Ormer, of Philadelphia, has been spending a few days in Bellefonte. He is employed in a job printing office in the Quaker City.

Miss Carrie Hastings, and her brother, James Hastings, of Philadelphia, arrived on Thursday evening and are guests at the home of Col. D. H. Hastings of Linn street.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hill, of Philadelphia, are guests at the residence of Mrs. Hill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Richard, on Lamb street. In our first notice we unintentionally omitted Mr. H.

Mrs. I. B. Worth, of Kennett Square, Pa., is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. E. R. Chambers, of Lamb St. Mrs. Chambers has been quite ill for a week past, and her mother's presence is very gratifying.

Mr. Will Auchenbach, of Williamsport, came up on Monday, accompanied by his friend, Mr. Harry Hill, son of Theo. Hill, of that city. They remained only a day and then departed for Cape May, where they will spend a brief vacation.

We hear that Brig. Gen. Wm. Jones, of the First National Bank, came home on Monday evening from Gettysburg where he has been listening to the Norris-Sickles discussion and munching hard tack, while he thought of equally hard taxes.

Dr. Detwiler, of Williamsport, returned from California on Monday evening, stopping, en route, in this place to meet a daughter who has been visiting here. From here they went, on Tuesday, to Mifflinburg, to meet another daughter, whence, we suppose, all will return to Williamsport.

Mrs. Annie Cleveland and daughter, Madie, of Mankato, Minn., are visiting Mrs. Maggie Hutchinson, of Howard St. Mrs. Cleveland was a daughter of Robert McClellan, formerly residing near the Old Fort. Miss Madie is a charming young lady of twelve summers and an accomplished musician.

Mr. J. A. Confer, a very successful farmer living at the head of Marsh Creek, is one of the most clever and interesting gentlemen in that section of the country. Mr. Confer is very ably assisted with his farm work by his gentlemanly boys, Seymour and Edward. Among other valuable stock owned by Mr. Confer, is the finest two-year-old colt we have seen anywhere in our travels.

How I got through Bellefonte on my way from New York to State College without stopping to greet my friend Tuten in his editorial sanctum, is of very easy explanation to one who keeps up with the progress of this railroad age. In the first place I did not come that roundabout way; and in the second place, State College, of late years, has been on the move, and been wheeling closer into line with the world's travel and progress until now it happens to stand between Bellefonte and sunrise; and, the only mystery is how one could possibly get to Bellefonte without passing through State College.

HIRAM TORREY.

MARRIED.

WETZEL—BECHDEL.—On July 1st, 1886, at the home of the bride's father, by Rev. W. R. Gilmore, of Lock Haven, John B. Wetzel, of Mosherton, this county, and Miss Mary E., daughter of David Bechdel, of Romola, this county.
